Washington—Within a week the battle line in congress will form. The upheaval in the Republican party has by no means subsided. Senator Watson, regular Republican leader, is back from a vacation. The Hoover bloc is digging in for the fray with more determination than ever. They have everything to gain, they argue, and nothing to lose. The present anomalous situation in which an insurgent Republican group joins with a Democratic group leaves the Hoover Republicans gazing at the wreckage as vote after vote is taken. So they want to make a coalition of their own.

In European parliamentary governments, a minority that cannot command a majority in its own party sometimes joins with a bloc or group of another party and deliberately maintains control. The Hoover Republicans want something different from mere control—they want progress. They foresee a big test in 1930 on the legislative achievements of the Hoover administration and they know it will mean a vote of confidence or lack of confidence for the administration which will have a bearing on 1932.

The coming session of congress is therefore the crisis. Unlike the special session of last year, legislative proposals can be brought forward. If a Democratic-Insurgent Republican coalition is to rule the senate, Mr. Hoover will be at the mercy of that combination as were Presidents Coolidge and Harding. The delays on the tariff bill have illustrated the dangers of a stalemate. The Hoover Republicans prefer some tariff legislation to none at all.

HOOVER NOT TO BLAME

The president recognizes the inequities and inequities of tariff legislation, but, on the other hand, feels he is not responsible for the system that has grown up and the costs of production that have become grooved in the profit and loss sheets of American industry.

So he wants tariff revision limited to the schedules that are in urgent of change and he is willing to accept the existing Fordney-McCumber

Quick Vote By House On Slashed Tax

Hawley Expects Resolution
Will Be Adopted During Next Week

Washington—(AP)—Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee, predicted today the house would adopt a resolution to authorize the $160,000,000 tax reduction on 1929 incomes before the end of the first week of the regular session.

The resolution, Hawley said, would be introduced Monday and he would call a meeting Tuesday of the ways and means committee. Hearings, he added, probably would be short in view of the approval of the reduction by the administration and leaders of both parties in both houses.

In the event the house would agree to consider the resolution Wednesday, under unanimous consent, without waiting for the committee report, it probably would be approved Monday, he said. Otherwise it would be brought up Thursday for action.

Senate leaders have announced that an effort would be made to expedite passage to that chamber.

Hawley's statement today was even more optimistic for early action than his utterance at the time the tax cut proposal was announced by Secretary Mellon. The ways and means chairman then predicted the house would dispose of it shortly before taking the Christmas recess. If his latest prediction materializes the senate will be given an opportunity to act before going home to hang up stockings Christmas eve.

House leaders expect but little difficulty in putting the resolution through.

Since it proposes only one form of reduction—a 1 per cent cut in the rate on corporation and individual incomes—the leaders believe there will be but slight disposition on the part of members to indulge in protracted debate.

The house leadership indicated that if this would develop they would enforce the drastic rules of that chamber which shut off discussion and provide a parliamentary short cut for an early vote.

The ways and means committee, which must handle all revenue legislation, will be ready to function as soon as the bang of Speaker Longworth's gavel calls the house to order Monday. It was organized at the outset of the special session last April and thus will not be held up, as will many other committees, by the filing of vacancies.

FAMILY OF 4 FOUND DEAD IN RESIDENCE

Chicago—(AP)—A family of four was found dead today in their home. They are believed to be victims of illuminating gas and to have been dead since yesterday. They are: Clayton Van Wie, 30; Mrs. Helen Van Wie, 21; Patricia, 3 months; Lily, 3 years.

The Van Wie family came here from Salem, Wis., two weeks ago. The police believe Van Wie did not realize the danger of carbon monoxide gas from a disconnected stove exhaust pipe and the gas filled the room while Thanksgiving dinner was being prepared.

GALES, FLOODS BRING HAVOC TO PORTUGAL

Lisbon, Portugal—(AP)—Storms and floods were raging with intense violence throughout Portugal today. A fishing boat at the entrance of the Tagus foundered and the crew of four perished.

Floods which swept Lisbon itself yesterday caused great hardship in the poorer sections. More than one hundred families were trapped in their homes and were rescued with difficulty by firemen. Many streets in the capital were covered in rushing streams of water.

Torrential rains fell for more than 24 hours, rushing into basements and cellars and in some cases undermining walls and chimneys.

MERCURY DOWN TO SIX BELOW IN APPLETON

Heavy Snow Fall Is Reported in Northern Wisconsin and Michigan

The central state shivered Friday morning in the grip of "Old King Winter." In Appleton the mercury dropped to 6 degrees below zero at 6 o'clock in the morning.

Thanksgiving Day weather—throughout the middle west was exceptionally frigid, with temperatures in the western part of the state recorded as low as 14 degrees below zero. Severe snow storms were reported in the western states. Four inches fell at Duluth, Minn., where the mercury also dropped to 12 degrees below zero Thursday night.

Trains were arriving here a little late Friday morning due to the excessive cold. Highways were littered with amateur mechanics who fought desperately with their frozen cars in the cold blast.

Below zero weather was the prophecy ventured once again by the weatherman for tonight and Saturday. Temperatures as low as 10 degrees below are expected to prevail here.

Skiing will be clear in this section of the state Friday night and Saturday. Snow is predicted in the upper and lower lake regions. At 12 o'clock Friday noon the mercury registered 2 degrees below zero.

BEER GLASS ROUTS BANDITS AT HURLEY

One Captured After Being Wounded by Own Gun—
Other Makes Escape

Hurley—(AP)—A beer glass, thrown with unerring aim, routed two hold-up men at the Santini hotel here about midnight last night and resulted in one being shot by his own gun. The pair entered the hotel and ordered about a dozen patrons to hold up their hands. The robbers appeared nervous so one of the patrons hurled a beer glass which struck John Eskel, about 40 years old, in the forehead.

Another patron then grappled with Eskel and in the scuffle the latter's gun was discharged. The bullet entered the shoulder of Eskel's companion then attempted to aid him. He aimed his revolver directly at the head of the man who held Eskel, the revolver clicked three times without exploding, panic-stricken, the robber rushed from the building.

Eskel's wound is not believed to be serious, according to physicians at the hospital. His companion is still at large although it was believed unlikely that he got very far because of the blizzard in the region.

FORMER ACTRESS DIES AT HOME IN OSHKOSH

Oshkosh—(AP)—Alice Washburn, 68, legitimate stage actress more than a decade ago and one of the premier comedienne of the cinema, died at her home here yesterday after an illness of several years. The immediate cause of death was attributed to heart disease.

AFTER ALL, MARC OWED JULIUS FINE FUNERAL ORATION

Chicago—(AP)—Along about the idea of March, 41 B. C., Marc Anthony owed Julius Caesar $1,569,435, which was a lot of money in those days.

The Chicago Civic theatre, devoted to Shakespeare, has found out about it from some old records. The point is that Marc owed the money on the idea of March, but that about the first of April he was clear on the books. The inscription is put forward that immediately after Caesar became deceased—via Brutus—Mr. Anthony took an eraser and obliterated the indebtedness.

Of course, Anthony made a pretty good talk in behalf of the late Mr. Caesar—"the evil that men do lives after them; the good is oft interred with their bones"—but it was no more than Caesar had a right to expect for $1,569,435.

McManus Lawyer Fails To Bar Poker Game Evidence

New York—(AP)—The defense of George A. McManus made its first offensive move today in his trial for the murder of Arnold Rothstein when James D. C. Murray presented a motion to strike out as irrelevant all testimony adduced regarding the big stud poker game where the state alleges across the motive for the killing.

Murray's motion was made as "Nigger Nate" Raymond, little olive-skinned, smartly dressed gambler from the Pacific coast, finished his testimony as the first witness of the day.

Raymond was a suspect in the killing for some time. Mr. Murray brought out, as he had several heated arguments with Rothstein during the two months between the game and Rothstein's shooting over the money the latter owed him.

He also lived in the Park Central where the state alleges Rothstein was killed, but spent all the fatal evening of Nov. 4, 1928, with his wife who was ill.

Raymond brought a new and unidentified player into the game, a "Charlie" who won some $15,000 from Rothstein.

He said he "bought" Meyer Boston's lucky seat in explaining how he knew that Boston had won.

"How much did you win or lose?" the witness was asked.

"I lost in cash and won in paper," he said.

"How much?"

"$19,000 in cash and $219,000 in I. O. U.'s."

He never collected the I. O. U.'s which were won from Rothstein, and which were merely given by word of mouth, with no other sign of indebtedness.

Raymond said he had asked for a note from Rothstein but McManus and the rest laughed at him so he merely took Rothstein's verbal promise to pay.

Raymond said he made his biggest bet at the stud poker game with Rothstein.

"How high did you bet with Rothstein on any one play?"

On that deal, against his objections, Rothstein "out" the cards.

"Did you win or lose?" Assistant District Attorney Pecora asked.

"I won."

REGULARS IN SENATE MAP OUT PROGRAM

Smoot Keeps Finance Committee Chairmanship in Organization Plan

Washington—(AP)—Senator Smoot of Utah, announced today he preferred to retain the chairmanship of the finance committee in the reorganization of the senate Republican committee assignments, thus opening the way for Senator Jones of Washington to become chairman of the appropriations committee.

Smoot's decision is regarded as the key to the organization's plan. As a result, Senator Watson of Indiana, is expected to continue as party leader. Watson would have been next in line for chairman of the important finance committee which handles all revenue legislation had Smoot taken over the appropriations committee leadership.

The chairmanship of the appropriations group was made vacant last week by the death of Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, the "dean" of the senate.

PLAN FOR SESSION

Senator Watson returned to his office today and began consultations with the party leaders preparatory to mapping out plans for the regular session. With Senator Jones in line for the chairmanship of the appropriations committee, it appeared likely that Senator McNary of Oregon, would become assistant party leader, a post now held by Jones.

Some difficulties are in sight for the faction-splitting Republicans in the senate in working together on organization for the regular session. "Western Independents have demanded a man for the finance committee, and Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, is their choice."

Senator Smoot gave notice today that as soon as the senate disposes next week of the question of seating Senator-Elect Vane of Pennsylvania, he would bring up the tariff bill again. Hoping to complete action on it early in the next year if not before that time, Smoot said he would demand a resumption of the long daily sessions, beginning at 10 a. m. and running until 6 p. m. He was not prepared to state whether night sessions will be asked.

BUS PASSENGERS OVERCOME BY GAS

Driver Keeps Motor Idling
While He Makes Repairs at Station

Cleveland—(AP)—Overcome by carbon monoxide gas, seven passengers and the driver of a Detroit to Pittsburgh, Colonial Stage Line bus, were rushed to a hospital here today. Doctors said they would recover.

Those overcome were H. E. Marston, 51, Chicago; Louie Wilson, Philadelphia; Pedro Muner, Detroit; Walter Meador, 26, Pittsburgh; William Weller, 25, Cumberland; M. F. S. Molter, Pittsburgh, driver of the bus; Miss Maymie Hamilton, 23, Amman, Mich.; and William Anderson, Detroit.

Needling repairs to the windshield, the driver guided the bus to the passenger station of another line, and kept the motor idling while the repairs were being made, so that the bus would be kept warm by heat from the exhaust.

Workmen at the repair station noticed the passengers slumped over in their seats and first thought they were asleep, but investigation showed most of them were unconscious. The repairmen immediately carried the overcome passengers to fresh air outside the bus and summoned firemen and ambulances.

Firemen said the poison gas came from the bus exhaust.

THINK TRAIN WRECK SUSPECT IS INNOCENT

Denver—(AP)—Denver police today were convinced Clifford Stevenson, 26, arrested Wednesday night, was in no way connected with the wrecking and robbery of the Union Pacific's Portland limited near Cheyenne Monday night.

Although freed of suspicion as regards the train robbery, Stevenson was held for further investigation. He was carrying a .45 caliber pistol in his possession when he was arrested, police said.

LAST MINUTE BULLETINS

St. Paul—(AP)—Gov. Christianson today granted extradition to Wisconsin of Frank B. Mayo, alias Meagher, charged with operating a confidence game, but Mayo disappeared before the warrant could be served. He was charged with fleeing Frank Weisenel, Dane co farmer of $8,460 in a fake stock market scheme.

Racine—(AP)—Fire, which started in a garage today, destroyed two buildings and threatened to spread through the entire business district of the town of Frankville, a few miles northwest of here. A Racine fire company and 200 volunteer firemen fought the blaze.

Berlin—(AP)—Julius Curtius, Germany's new foreign minister, placed himself squarely behind the Young plan today in his first speech before the Reichstag since his appointment. He succeeded the late Dr. Stresemann.

Washington—(AP)—Allotment of $500,000 for the construction of the first of the two locks contemplated in the Twin City lock and dam project on the Mississippi river at St. Paul was announced today by the war department. The funds were allotted for the indefinite appropriation for operation and care of locks and dams, and in addition to an allotment of $806,500 recently made for the reconstruction of the Twin City lock and dam which collapsed Aug. 19, 1922.

Cleveland—(AP)—Directors of the Otis Steel company today approved a $19,000,000 expansion project and authorized F. J. Kulas, president of the company, to prepare complete plans and have the construction started as quickly as possible. The expenditure will be the firm's 1929 construction program and will be started, Kulas said, as soon as possible. Kulas had recommended the expansion upon his return here from President Hoover's prosperity conference held recently at Washington. Approval by the directors was unanimous.

Ile a La Crosse, Sash—(AP)—With a 25-mile an hour gale from the Arctic tundra whipping the falling snow into a blizzard, anxiety was being felt for the safety of the 50 fishermen who left here three days ago in two groups for northern fishing lakes.

MAYOR WAITS FOR WORD FROM SANTA ON COMING VISIT

Still no further word from Santa Claus Friday noon.

Mayor A. C. Hule and other city officials who are planning the celebration on Monday, Dec. 9, when Santa Claus is expected to visit Appleton, were anxiously waiting further word from Mr. Claus regarding when and how he would arrive in Appleton, how long he could stay, what he'd like to do when he gets here, etc.

The mayor said that undoubtedly the cold weather and severe blizzards in the north prevented Santa Claus from sending through further details regarding his acceptance of the mayor's invitation to come to Appleton. The mayor said that perhaps Santa Claus and his townsmen took a holiday on Thanksgiving day and didn't find time to send further word to Appleton.

It is expected that Santa Claus surely will send further word by Saturday.

RUSSIA AND CHINA ENTER VERBAL WAR

Nationalists Insist That Note Calls for Joint Conference

OTHERS POWERS WAIT
Give Two Nations Ample
Time to Agree Before
Trying to Intervene

Geneva—(AP)—Dr. Wu Kai-Seng, permanent Chinese delegate to the league of nations, tonight received a telegram from the Nationalist government stating that Nanking and Moscow had agreed to negotiate directly with each other in an effort to settle the Manchurian crisis.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

The Russo-Chinese controversy over the Chinese Eastern railway for the present has shifted from warlike activities in Manchuria to a verbal bombardment between Moscow and Nanking as to the exact status of negotiations looking toward a settlement.

Out of the intense confusion of denials, counterdenials, charges and counter charges, the following facts emerged:

Nanking emphatically denied that Manchuria was negotiating independently for a settlement with the Soviet government. The Nationalist foreign office insisted that it had sent a note to Moscow containing proposals for a Sino-Russian joint commission to investigate border conditions and for withdrawal of troops by both sides to at least thirty miles from the frontier.

In view of rejection "the Nationalist government will be prepared to meet Soviet moves accordingly."

Moscow insisted that negotiations with Nanking were going forward and charged that Nanking, to thwart these, was seeking intervention by the powers.

Izvestia, official Soviet organ, declared that the "imperialists" were seeking to intervene in order to "stretch out an arm to the Chinese Eastern railway."

Meanwhile Washington, which has been in communication with other powers to determine if anything could be done, awaited the outcome of the Moscow note to Moscow.

The attitude of the state department, as interpreted in Washington, appeared to be that China and Russia should be given every opportunity to settle the differences between them before the other powers take action.

Thus far the league of nations has received no official appeal from the Nationalist government to take a hand in the controversy.

The British North China Daily News at Shanghai quoted Russian Agency reports that negotiations between Moscow and Nanking had begun at Harbin "on the express authority of both Nanking and Mukden authorities."

The railway town of Buchan, 250 miles from the border, was again reported bombarded by Soviet planes, but no other fighting seems to have taken place for the past few days.

DRY LAW HEARING BEFORE COMMITTEE

Building Program Delays
Report on Treasury Post-office Bill

Washington—Extensive hearings on prohibition enforcement and the public building program are expected by members of the house appropriations committee to delay the report of the annual treasury-postoffice departments supply bill until after the Christmas holidays.

It has been customary to report the measure soon after the regular December session begins. Although hearings were begun about ten days ago it was indicated by Chairman Wood today that the report on the measure would be delayed until after the holiday recess ends in January.

His measure, usually one of the largest, in recent years has authorized the expenditure of a billion dollars annually.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran already has presented prohibition enforcement needs before the subcommittee and Rear Admiral Billard, commandant of the coast guard, appeared today.

Chairman Wood told committee members the interior and agriculture department supply bills would be the first to be submitted to the house. The bill for the departments of state, justice, commerce and labor, probably will be the third.

Hearings are being held on the war department measure. Some delay in its being reported is expected in view of President Hoover's desire to affect reorganization in some branches with a view to reducing expenditures.

EOROFKA, YOUNG BANDIT CHIEF, IS SENTENCED

Green Bay—(AP)—Joseph Borofka, 19, admitted leader of a boy-bandit gang which last week stole a car at De Pere and went to Appleton as a pretense to going to St. Louis where they intended, they said, to become "big" bandits, today was sentenced from one to five years on a charge of auto larceny. His two companions, one 15 and the other 16, were not sentenced. Borofka was released from the reformatory here one week ago.

After Borofka's release, the three boys said they robbed a store here, then stole the car at De Pere and were planning to steal some guns at Appleton when officers apprehended them in a meat market robbery.

WOMEN FLIERS FAIL TO SET NEW RECORD

Metropolitan Airport, Los Angeles—(AP)—The second attempt of Hattie Frost of Los Angeles, and Miss Sarah of New York, to establish a new record for endurance flight here failed today when both of them turned them to land their plane at 3:45 a. m. They had been in the air 42 hours and 5 minutes.

The mid-west made a perfect landing, and said they were feeling fine after two days and nearly two months in the air. Both expressed their disappointment because of their inability to replenish their machine supply before dark last night.

"The breaks have all been against us," Miss Frost said, "and although we are disappointed, we are not discouraged. Our plane performed splendidly, and we're back to doing it." "We most certainly expect to try again."

KILLS HIS DAUGHTER IN HUNTING MISHAP

Land o' Lakes—(AP)—A father hunting in the woods near his home killed his daughter when a stray shot ricocheted from a tree and struck her down as she played in the yard.

Word of the accident, which caused the death of Florence Atkins, 10, reached here yesterday. The girl's father, John Atkins, had been using a high-powered rifle, when he fired at an animal in the underbrush.

SPOT OF BLOOD LEADS TO BURGLAR'S ARREST

Milwaukee—(AP)—Blood trickling to the floor from a wounded hand revealed last night in the arrest of William Elmore, 31, a Negro, on a charge of burglary.

A policeman saw a blotch of fresh blood on the sidewalk in front of a store. He noted a transient "has been" there. The officer went to investigate and found the Negro with about $20 worth of clothing crumpled in his hands. Police said the man admitted other minor burglaries.

Seek Motive For Double Tragedy In Gold Coast Home

MAN SHOTS WIFE BEFORE KILLING SELF

Ill Health and Stock Market Losses Are Two Theories in Mystery

Chicago—(AP)—There were two motives offered today to explain the Thanksgiving day double tragedy in the gold coast apartment of the James Barrett Pauls—ill health and market losses.

Pauls shot his wife as she sat working a crossword puzzle. He then entered the bathroom and killed himself with the same revolver. Both had been in ill health for some time, and there was evidence that they had suffered heavy losses in the stock market. There was, however, no indication that the double tragedy had been contemplated, and police today were still trying to find out what particular incident prompted Pauls to act just at the time the couple were preparing to attend a Thanksgiving dinner at the home of friends.

Pauls's physician said the maladeed coal company executive was seriously ill several months ago. The doctor did not believe, however, that the present state of Pauls's health was such as to lead him to seek release by death.

Likewise, a cursory examination of Pauls's stock accounts did not indicate that their losses had been ruinous, even though they were considerable. Friends of Pauls said they did not believe he could be so depressed. They spoke of him as well-to-do, with a comfortable salary income.

The couple were to have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Bode for Thanksgiving dinner. Mrs. Pauls was fully dressed and apparently had started to work the crossword puzzle while waiting for her husband to finish shaving.

FOUNTAIN BELLOBOY
The Pauls' chauffeur had been ordered to have the car at the apartment house entrance. After waiting more than half an hour, he had a bellboy go to the Pauls apartment. When there was no answer to the boy's knocks, the apartment was entered by use of a passkey. The Pauls had been dead about 30 minutes.

At the Bode home the non-arrival of the Pauls family caused anxiety, and Bode telephoned to the Pauls apartment. He returned to find his guests a moment later and said the Pauls were delayed but for the others to go ahead. It was not until after the dinner was ended that Bode told his guests what had happened.

Pauls had been prominent socially in Chicago for many years. His wife, the former Ellen Ludlow, was a niece of the late Gov. Asa Bushnell of Ohio. She was a famed beauty and once was reported engaged to Capt. Richmond P. Hobson, a hero of the Spanish-American war. Pauls had been prominent in the coal mining industry for many years and until a few years ago was a director of the Deering Coal company. He was an owner of the $2,000,000 estate of the late James K. Deering.

John I. Connery, president of the Miami Coal company, could assign no other motive to the tragedy than ill health.

$2,000,000 FIRE LOSS IN BAY STATE

Five Steamers, Bath House and Three Dwellings Are Destroyed

Hull, Mass.—(AP)—Some of the features of the summer resort of Nantasket beach were in ashes today. Flames, fanned by a 40-mile-an-hour wind, swept the excursion fleet and pier yesterday, destroying five steamers, adjoining water front structures, the state bath house and three dwellings with a loss of $2,000,000. Firemen from six towns and the cities of Quincy and Boston were summoned.

Blazes were started three quarters of a mile away on the roofs of a dozen cottages and the Church of St. Mary of the Assumption. The church steeple was damaged. The steamboats, Mary Chilton, Nantasket, Rose Standish, Betty Allen and Old Colony, which were moored at the pier, were destroyed. Low tide and the absence of tugs prevented towing them to safety. The boats have been used by thousands in the summer on trips from Boston to the beach, which is situated near the entrance to Boston harbor. Paragon Park show place was saved.

The fire was declared under control at 8 o'clock p. m., after four hours of fighting. Guards were placed during the night. Frederick L. Lane, manager of the Nantasket Beach Steamboat company, said that the loss to the company would be $2,000,000. Unofficial estimates of the value of buildings burned was $500,000.

KIDNAPER'S RING IS BROKEN UP BY DETROIT POLICE

Four Ringleaders Go to Prison for Life—Fifth Awaits Trial

Detroit, Mich.—A ring of kidnapers who operated with cold-blooded daring, reaped huge sums from wealthy Detroit families and committed at least one murder has been broken up by Detroit police after months of effort—and the "Unholy Alliance" of the motor city's underworld has at last been smashed to fragments.

There are kidnapers in every big city, but in Detroit, for the first time, kidnaping for ransom became a highly-organized "business" with a large criminal organization that specialized in that kind of crime.

Three Detroit police inspectors stand out as the heroes of the war on this ring: Inspectors Henry J. Garvin, Robert A. McPherson and Fred W. Ibrahim. These three of course, respectively, the crime squad and the homicide squad, followed slender clues for months, "pumped" underworld "stool pigeons," or secret police informers—and finally were able to round up one of the most desperate gangs in Detroit's criminal history.

RANSOM IS COLLECTED
The gang's kidnaping began early last summer, when Fred Begeman, alleged wholesale liquor dealer, was taken from his home in Wyandotte and held prisoner by armed men for six days, being released finally when his relatives paid a ransom for him.

Then David Cass, 23-year-old son of a Detroit real estate dealer, was kidnaped and a $5000 ransom was demanded.

Gerson C. Cass, the abducted youth's father, did not notify police, fearing that it might cost the boy his life; instead he arranged to meet a member of the gang on a street corner and pay him the money.

Stool pigeons, however, tipped off the police, and a number of officers were lying in wait when Cass met the gangster and handed him a package of bills. The police gave chase and shot the gangster down. He proved to be Joseph (Legs) Laman.

Laman lay desperately ill for weeks, and while he was thus on his deathbed he talked, mentioning names. The officers got the information they could from him and then took him into court, convicted him of extortion, as they were unable to prove a graver charge, and sent him to prison. Then they set out to act on the knowledge they had gained from him.

BEGEMAN HELD PRISONER
Soon they arrested Henry R. Andrews as one of Begeman's kidnapers. Begeman had been taken to and from his place blindfolded and the window of the room in which he was held prisoner was boarded over. But through a crack in the boards he had seen certain landmarks and by these he identified Andrews' house.

Andrews later was sentenced to 35 to 60 years for abduction. While he lay in jail awaiting trial, the "Unholy Alliance," as police called the kidnaping ring, fell into more trouble.

Matthew Holdreth, Jr., 23-year-old Notre Dame University senior, and son of a restaurant owner, was kidnaped on Sept. 11. A few days later a roving police radio car, ordered to be on the alert for a stolen taxicab, encountered the taxi and engaged in an extended gun battle with two men who were in it. The battle ended with the two gunmen in custody. They identified themselves as Edward Wiles and Frank Hofer and, after a long grilling, confessed to having helped kidnap Holdreth.

The officers went to the apartment named by the prisoners as the gang's hangout and found Holdreth there chained to a bed. They released him, and Wiles and Hofer were sentenced to prison terms of 25 years to 50 years. Holdreth was near starvation and so ill from lack of water as to have trouble that he could hardly speak.

Meanwhile, however, no trace of Joseph Cass had been found. At last, however, on Oct. 29, the last missing body was discovered in a thicket north of Lapeer, Mich. He had been brutally tortured and shot to death months before.

The gang, though crippled, was not yet out of action. While these developments were going forward, Jackie Thompson, five-year-old son of a wealthy real estate dealer, was kidnaped. He later was called police.

FATHER RECOVERS CHILD
After his son had been gone 24 days the father Thompson arranged to pay a $25,000 ransom for his boy. The boy was taken in a distant part of the city, landed over 100 miles away from his home and set at liberty safe and sound.

The last was a warning, had been collecting cases and once Jackie was safe at last, they were swept, capturing a number of suspects, including the man who was regarded as the ringleader—one James Fernandez, who is now awaiting trial under the unhealed hands of the police. Arresting officers claim that Fernandez forced them a $100 cash bribe.

MOTHER YIELDS TO PLEAS, BUYS GUN, BOY FATALLY SHOT

Washington—(AP)—For five days, Leo Atwill, 16, beseeched his mother for permission to buy a gun in order that he might join a group of companions on a Thanksgiving day rabbit hunt. She yielded and the gun which he carried so proudly into the woods cost the last of his life.

Stopping to rest, Leo leaned the firearm against a tree. It slipped from his place and in falling, was accidentally discharged. The bullet pierced his heart.

Madison—(AP)—A letter to superintendent of city and county schools asking information of school construction has been sent by John C. Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction. It asks the estimated cost of construction voted for next year, the amount of contracts let and the amount of contracts remaining to be let. Mr. Callahan said he was sending the letter "at the request of the governor and in conformity with President Hoover's call."

Scientists Link Finding Of Lake With Earthquakes

Washington—(AP)—Discovery of a vast ocean trough near Japan, more than five miles deep in one place and ranking as the sixth greatest submarine depth known to man, was welcomed by scientists as showing increased light on the earthquake history of the region.

Centers of earthquake activity usually are found in the neighborhood of ocean depths. Figures generally indicate weaknesses in the earth's crust that will give way under conditions of stress and strain. The trough was found by scientists aboard the Carnegie, non-magnetic ship of the Carnegie institution of Washington, as they were cruising due north from Guam to Yokohama, Japan.

It measured 23,350 feet in depth for a distance of nine miles, a trough deep enough for Mount Everest, the highest mountain in the world, to be buried with only 761 feet of its peak above water.

The abyss was named Fleming deep in honor of John A. Fleming, assistant director of the department of terrestrial magnetism of the Carnegie institution of Washington. Its location was given as latitude 23.8 north, longitude 141.1 east. The ocean bottom was 13,200 feet deep.

ALL-COLLEGE SMOKER CONSIDERED AT COLLEGE

The first all-college smoker in the history of Lawrence college may take place this winter following the action of Blue Key, campus service fraternity, to sponsor a get-together for men. At a recent meeting a committee composed of Robert Deegs, Pensacola, Fla., and Hayward Diggers, Elgin, was appointed to investigate the proposition.

It was felt by the Blue Key men who proposed the activity that insufficient efforts are being made to allow Lawrence men to "mix" outside the sanctity of their own fraternity houses and dormitories.

CONSTRUCTION JOBS ALMOST COMPLETED

New Street Department Building Only Large Project Unfinished

With the exception of the construction of the new street department building, the sidewalks on Lawrence-st. and a few short stretches of sewer, all city construction work is finished for the year, according to Mayor A. C. Hale. Although it would be possible to continue working up until a heavy snowfall, Mr. Hale states that construction work at this time of the year costs about 25 per cent more than during warm weather. Consequently, all projects will be held over until next spring.

At present plans are being made for paving of South-st., Alton-st., and Franklin-st. from Duane-st. north, and in February the contracts for these pavements and the resurfacing of Lawrence-st., Oneida-st., Washington-st., Midway-st., and Park-ave will be awarded so that work can be started on them as soon as weather permits in the spring. The street department building is being made to complete the resurfacing of Oneida-st. by June 1, when the tourist trade opens. The early completion of these pavements will avoid a large amount of spring repairs.

The last section of sewer to be laid this year is 155 feet on Locust-st. from Lawrence-st. north, although there is a possibility that 165 feet will be installed yet this year on Duane-st. from Locust-st. south. The street department building is being rushed so that street department machinery can be properly housed for the winter.

LARGE HATS WON'T WIN POPULARITY IN CHICAGO THEATRES

Chicago—(AP)—The local law intends that folks who pay money to see a show shall have an unobstructed view despite a return of over-sized feminine hats, which milliners said would follow in the wake of trailing skirts.

Notified that his head-gear is threatening a coachman, First Assistant Corporation Counsel James W. Breen dug into musty municipal tomes. Today he brought forth an unrepented city ordinance that anyone agrieved by huge hats at a theatrical performance can have both the wearer and theatre manager arrested and fined.

"That law was passed," said Mr. Breen, "when each hat in the theatre looked like a small edition of Pike's peak, shutting off both the view and the circulation of air. Women got around it by reducing the size of their hats, for it did not prohibit small caps, lace coverings or close fitting hats."

NATION SITS DOWN TO BIGGEST TURKEY DINNER IN 30 YEARS

Fact Seems to Indicate People Aren't as Bad Off as Some Believe

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press)

New York — If straws show which way the wind blows, the turkey in the straw may be even more revealing. With burghers throughout the land complaining that their throats were cut from ear to ear in the stock market, the nation Thursday sat down to its biggest turkey feed in 30 years.

At the headquarters of the world's largest turkey distributing house, it was stated that never before within the last three decades had there been such a demand for turkeys, and that the national Thanksgiving day consumption would far surpass that of any other year. Chain markets in large eastern cities reported the same record demand.

There was a similar unprecedented demand for the fowling to go with the turkeys. Dealers were unable to meet the demand for large turkeys and premiums were offered for birds weighing more than twelve pounds. With the public having lost billions in the stock market, it is appalling to think of what the turkey demand might have been had the bull market continued.

Turkey merchants did not stress Thanksgiving in any special campaign, having decided to concentrate on Christmas and start their Christmas campaign earlier than usual. In spite of this, even luxury shops, handling high-priced trimmings for Thanksgiving dinners, report the usual run of trade and the usual demand for food luxuries. A London newspaper remarked last week that "America's bloated prosperity is having the wind let out of it. Already a distressing money stringency is being felt and the prospect of broad lines looms ahead."

One eloquent answer is the nation's biggest dinner, with the pig line, as well as the bread line, forming in forty-eight states.

ADJUSTMENT IS MADE
While only one month has passed since the first big market slide, the psychological pressure gauge already indicates that a wide-scale public adjustment has been made. There is plenty of evidence that thousands of market chockers, having survived the shock, are picking up their old jobs, or the threads of a neglected business. The was corroborated by the head of a personnel department of a large New York mercantile establishment.

"I believe the next six months will reveal a much more healthy condition in the working personnel of the country," said this official. "I do not wish to appear to be moralizing about the gambling in which the country has been indulging, as I have done my share of it myself, but in the personnel studies which we have made I am convinced that great popular concentration on the market has in a very real sense taken the country's mind off its work. Now we are beginning to get back on the job again."

Personally, I have been intensely interested in this as a supplementary factor of what President Hoover and his great industrialists of the country are doing to speed up production and keep the wheels moving at full speed. After all, the basic wealth of the country depends on the concentration of innumerable people on basic money making enterprises. The general state of mind of the job-holders and small businessmen is, in my view, an extremely important consideration.

"I have in mind the case of a friend, an electrical engineer, who became a jobber in electrical apparatus. He had a sound little business and was getting along nicely. About six months ago he told me that he had sold his business—that it was just a pious game, and that he had been making ten times as much in the stock market as he made in his business in a year. I saw him again yesterday. He had been vined out in the market."

WORKING AGAIN NOW
"I had to go to work again," he said. "I have managed to pick up two part-time jobs and I am getting squared away to start my business again. I am a specialist in my line and I had no trouble in getting a foothold again."

"If you multiply this man by a few hundred thousand, you will find a composite of productive resources, which is work taking into account. This man is sure to maintain a pretty good buying power, and I happen to know that he is going to have his usual Thanksgiving dinner."

"I expect to see savings accounts steadily climbing throughout the country during the next six months. We have in our concern, and employees' saving department, and we have begun to note increasing deposits during the last two weeks. As I see it, there are two factors which will drive the country to even greater production next year. One is the obvious one that there is plenty of money to finance continued production and even expansion, the other, the somewhat less obvious, is that the standard of living which has been built up during the last ten years is even a greater incentive to effort than the fear of poverty."

"Many of our employees lost their savings and paper profits in the markets. I find that, almost without exception, they have commitments for real estate or other property and that they are determined to work hard and hang on and pay their way out. A man will often work harder to keep what he has than to avoid an apparent danger. Taking the country at large, I believe that the years of conditioning in higher living standards will be a powerful force in keeping the present business momentum."

"I do not mean to minimize the real and tragic effects of these great losses in innumerable cases, and, as I have said I am not moribund, but as a personnel expert I see a healthier and possibly happier public state of mind ahead."

Thirtieth International Exposition Opens With Many Fighting for Honors

Chicago—(AP)—The pomp and pageantry of nature went on display today at the opening of the 56th annual International Livestock Exposition and Hay and Grain show at the Chicago Stock Yards.

From Europe and Canada have come the purest breeds of domesticated animals, sporting and stomping as they entered the famed old cow barn arena to match brawn and beauty with America's finest. In the hay and grain show are exhibits from the richest soils and best farm lands in the country.

As nature's aides in staging this annual pageant are veteran farm experts and eager young boys and girls whose lives and work largely are dedicated to improving the nation's standards in agriculture. They represent schools and colleges, vast estates and small farms, but at the livestock show they are on equal footing before the judges whose only duty is to pick the best.

Last year premiere honors of the exposition were heaped upon the slender shoulders of a 12-year-old Iowa farm lad, Clarence Goeckle, of State Center, whose prize steer, Dick swept through to the grand championship to be sold on the hoof at $7 a pound, a previously undreamed-of figure. Young Goeckle has not entered this year's competition, but his sister, Emma, 16, and his cousin, Elmer Goeckle, 14, are seeking to uphold the family reputation.

OVER 12,000 ENTRIES
More than 12,000 head of livestock are entered this year, establishing a new record in numbers; and show authorities say the quality of the animals also is constantly improving. A novel arrangement has been adopted for showing off the kings and queens of the livestock world. "Thrones" have been erected in the arena for exhibiting the blue ribbon winners while their admirers have only been paraded.

While the exposition opens today with the non-collegiate livestock judging contests, the actual competition among the prize animals does not begin until tomorrow. The collegiate livestock judging contests also will take place tomorrow.

Running concurrently with the exposition will be the eighth annual national congress of the boys and girls Four-H clubs, the organization of farm boys and girls which produced Young Goeckle and his grand champion steer. These youths compete among themselves and then are eligible to enter their stock in the big show, as did last year's winner. One of the outstanding events of the congress is the selection of the healthiest boy and healthiest girl as typifying American farm youth.

Weak After Operation

"About five months ago, following an operation for appendicitis I did not gain strength enough to be up and about. My mother and sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken five bottles and it has helped me to get strong so I can do my own housework now. I have recommended it to several friends who have been weak and run-down."—Mrs. Oscar Olson, Box 474, Thief River Falls, Minn.

REST OF FARMER'S WIFE AVERAGES 3 HOURS EVERY DAY

Farm Women Have as Much Leisure Time as Their City Sisters

Manhattan, Kas.—(P)—If day-by-day record of Kansas farm-women are typical, the American housewife may judge herself by this data gathered at the Kansas State Agricultural college:

Women on large farms have more leisure time than those on small farms.

Women in "modern" homes average 3.14 hours of leisure daily; in "semi-modern" homes, 2.92 hours, and 2.3 hours in homes without modern improvements.

Mothers with children under 6 years of age have more leisure than those whose children are older.

Women between 37 and 40 have more leisure than those between 20 and 29, or more than 40.

Farm women, if their homes include conveniences of the city, have as much leisure as their city sisters.

Those conclusions were reached from a survey of 50 Kansas farm women, who kept records of how their time was spent for a month.

A homemaker on a farm of 640 acres had more leisure time, about eight hours a day, than any other woman included in the project. Another, a more average case, had 117 leisure hours during the month, including 58.3 hours spent outside the home.

BEGIN COMPUTATION OF INDIVIDUAL TAXES

The computation of the tax on individual pieces of property has been begun in the office of the city clerk, Carl Becker. Three deputies, Miss Elsie McFend, Elmer Scott and Miss Frances Rastall, and Mr. Becker are doing the work, which probably will be completed in two or three weeks. Following the completion of the computation the receipts will be made out in the office of the treasurer, Fred Bachman. Collection of taxes will begin in the last part of December.

CITY SEEKS BIDS FOR MATERIAL FOR SHED

Carl Becker, city clerk, has advertised for sealed bids for material for the new city equipment shed, which is being rushed to completion before heavy snows arrive. The materials needed include structural and reinforcing steel, concrete, building blocks, lumber, roofing, steel sash, cement, sand, gravel, doors, tile flue lining and a heating and ventilating system.

CONFERENCE AT WAUSAU
Wausau.—(P)—The scope of efficiency movements extended today to include the state Y. M. C. A. old boys' conference, in session here. The keynote of the three-day meeting is "how boys' club work can be made more efficient." Officials made plans to house 500 delegates.

Movies Steal Her From Hubby

It wasn't another man, but the glamor of a movie career that stole Camilla Horn, above, the flaxen-haired film star, from her husband, Klaus Gerna, a young merchant of Hamburg, with his full consent. "I am tired of being a husband in name only," Herr Gerna told his friends. "Camilla and I were happy until she became a famous film star. Then I saw little of her."

King's English Changes, But Usually For Better

Kansas City.—(P)—The king's English is not what it used to be, but the man in the street needn't feel culpable. Instead, he may indulge in a slight expansion about the upper vest buttons and fairly adopt a heightened air of reduction.

At least a score of widely known teachers of English, here to open the annual convention of their national council, expressed themselves as convinced that evolution of the language has been to its improvement and credited the oft maligned "newspaper" English with a goodly share in the beneficial alteration.

Dr. E. M. Hopkins, professor of English at the University of Kansas, thought teachers where duty bound to take a stand against innovations in the language, but he was alone in that opinion. "The changes fast enough anyway," said Dr. Hopkins, "and teachers must act as a restraining influence."

In theory that is our stand, but it does us little good to take any stand. We might as well quit and let the language go its way. It will anyway."

W. Wilbur Hatfield of the Chicago Normal college, secretary of the council, said he believed "the language of the street is no worse than it ever was and the general trend in literary language is good."

Arthur Guiterman of New York, writer of humorous verse, applauded the influence of newspapers on popular speech.

"Headlines inform the people that an agreement is a 'pact,'" he said, "that a tennis match is a 'net tilt,' that an explosion is a 'blast.' Along with the headlines go news stories couched in strong, simple language. The council meeting will end tomorrow."

Facts About City Manager Government

One of the principal arguments for adoption of the city manager plan of government for Appleton is that this type of government will make possible a more efficient administration than any other form. It is the contention of proponents of the manager plan that the government which is administered by a single person will be more efficient than one which is administered by a group of people. The city manager at Rhinelander took over the government in June of 1923 and he found that the assessed value of the city had been steadily increased to 1924 under an assessment made by the people. In 1924 the assessment was $8,100,000. In 1925 it was $8,700,000. In 1926 it was $9,100,000. In 1927 it was $9,500,000. In 1928 it was $9,900,000. In 1929 it was $10,300,000. The city manager reduced the tax rate $4.00 to $3.00 and at the same time reduced the assessed value of the city to $8,100,000. The result was a saving of $1,000,000. The city manager also reduced the tax rate $1.00 to $2.00 and at the same time reduced the assessed value of the city to $8,100,000. The result was a saving of $1,000,000. The city manager also reduced the tax rate $1.00 to $2.00 and at the same time reduced the assessed value of the city to $8,100,000. The result was a saving of $1,000,000.

per cent, since the manager assumed charge in 1923. While the tax rate and the assessments were being reduced the manager has carried on an extensive program of public improvement and has materially reduced the city's borrowings from the banks. He found the city laboring under a "current debt" of more than $200,000 when he took charge of the government but this has now been reduced to approximately $50,000, and the manager will have a surplus in the treasury when his charges are paid for the year. Maesch In 2nd Recital On Organ

LA VAHN MAESCH, A. A. G. O., professor of organ and theory at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, will present the second faculty recital of the season in the First Congregational church Wednesday, Dec. 4.

Maesch has won his A. A. G. O. by creditably passing national examinations in organ, theory, and general musicianship. As associate of the American Guild of Organists, national organization for honorary recognition, he holds honors second only to F. A. G. O., or Fellow of the American Guild.

Maesch who received his M. S. B. from Lawrence conservatory in 1925 majored in organ under Arthur H. Arncke, ex-professor at Lawrence, who was recently heard in the first Artist Series concert as accompanist for the Lyric Male Chorus of Milwaukee. Since his graduation, Maesch has studied with Palmer Christian, head of the organ department, Ann Arbor, Mich., who is one of America's leading virtuosi. It was Palmer Christian who gave the dedicatory recital on the Congregational organ last year. He was brought here through the efforts of Maesch and Cyrus Danko, both members of the honor "Guild" to which Christian also belongs.

Last summer La Vahn Maesch studied composition and theory with Marcel Dupre in Paris. Dupre is an "organ virtuoso" extraordinary, and master improviser of "history." He has just completed his fourth transcontinental concert tour of the United States. He was former organist at Notre Dame, Paris, and now heads the organ departments of the three greatest schools of music in Paris, the Paris Conservatory, Ecole de Musique, and Fontainebleau.

Maesch's program will comprehend an interpretation of the life of a people for centuries. Works of J. S. Bach and Buxtehude have been drawn from the music literature of the late 17th and early 18th centuries. Schubert and Cesar Franck represent the 19th century, while more than half the program is drawn from great contemporary composers for organ. Karg Elert, Ton Bonnet, Rogers, Dupre, and Debussy are all represented.

Pirates, grand games and swash-bucklers of the old Spanish Main will be the plenipotentiaries at the Methodist church Tuesday and Wednesday when a Treasure Island Bazaar will transform the church basement into scenes from Stevenson's great adventure book. There will be a picturesque Trans-Island in miniature at the end of the dining room, and guests will be given a chance to dig for their treasure there. Two fortune tellers from Spain will predict futures, and rare jewels and costly silks will be sold in the Spanish booths.

The bazaar will open at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and continue until 7:30 Wednesday evening. Luncheon will be served from 11:30 to 1:30 Tuesday, supper from 5:30 to 7:30 on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

STILL in hearing distance, a sneering voice answered Harry's inquiry concerning the driver of the automobile with which he had collided. "I haven't run away."

"Oh, so it's you, John Foster," Harry's voice and face were surprised. "What did you mean by crashing into a car that had the right of way?"

"John Foster—John Foster—" Sue was repeating the name to herself. It had a familiar sound. Suddenly the connection righted itself in her mind. John Foster was the name of the man who was chairman of the board of trustees for the Old Ladies Home. He was the one who had called frequently for Martin Clinger. Sue turned to study the large, flabby face.

The name evidently meant something to the crowd, also. The people caught it, echoed it, and passed it down the line.

"It was Foster's fault. I saw him do it," a voice explained.

"Sure it was. The nut banged straight into Becker. I'll back the case in court," another voice supported the argument.

"Foster wasn't watching where he was going!"

So long as it was one of their own number the crowd had been drawn by mob loyalty, Sue realized, in a vague manner, but when the play was on another stage it had no objection to justice.

John Foster sought her out while the doctor finished dressing Harry's arm.

"I'm sorry if I disturbed the pleasure of your drive," he told her in a voice so smooth it made her think of glass. She had an idea that if it would break, the rugged edges of the pieces could hurt terribly, though. "You may have to ride on a street car."

"I'll send for another car, Sue," Harry said quickly. "We'll be out of this in a minute."

"Sue? Sue?" This time Foster repeated a name. "Now I know you! You're the girl who works in the Thornton, Curtis and Thornton office. I thought I should know you. I have been wanting to meet you for some time."

There was a sneering malice in his little beady eyes and Sue shrank away from him. "You did an amusing trick with some crystals one night, I've been told."

"Say, Foster, will you mind your own business?" Harry asked in a voice that was deadly in its calm. "You may not be a gentleman but pretend you are."

"Test" the word was a sneering drawl. "Trying to make a purchase with your money bags, Croesus?"

"Get out or I'll kick you out," Harry wrenched his arm from the doctor, and then fell back as the sudden pain caught it.

Foster, meantime, turned to leave but he gave Sue a parting shot. "You may not have noticed that your nose are in runners from malls or glass and there's a big rent down the side of your orange frock. It's a good looking dress. Fits closely enough to make you—interesting."

"I think I'll had a taxi and see if we can't make better time," Harry said when he was ready. "I'm sorry I upset everything like this. If we had gone to the lodge where we should have, this would not have happened, but I didn't think you wanted to run into any of the crowd."

"I know what happened," Sue heard her voice saying, quite as though she didn't direct it. "Someone called you at dinner, and said that the moon was going to be up and the water warm. Don't apologize. Only—"

"Only what?" he asked.

"Oh, sometimes I grow rather tired of playing outside the fence because my apron is made of calico and my mother does her own ironing."

Asks Divorce

Paris.—(U)—Counsel for Pola Negri, film star, whose real name is Apolline Chaupece, today filed a petition for divorce against Prince Serge Medviani.

The grounds given were incompatibility, and instances of clashes in temperament between the film player and the prince were recited. This action has been expected since April when the prince said a divorce would be sought soon because they did not agree.

He explained he wished to go to Monte Carlo but Pola wouldn't let him and they had another rift. He said he was greatly grieved because "Pola is a remarkably sweet person."

The Tinymites

By Hal Cochran

THE little Tinymites were sad 'cause everything had turned out bad. They worked away at scrubbing and the ship looked very clean. "I'd like to stop this work right now," was Cloway said, "but gee, homehow I am afraid to do it. It would likely start a scene."

"The captain of the ship is rough and I am sure he'd make it tough for all of us if we should disobey his sharp commands. I've scrubbed until my back is sore and I can't keep it up much more. Why, I have worn big blisters on my hands."

"That's 'cause you're tender," Scoury cried. "From real hard work you always hide. The rest of us seem quite all right, although we're all tired out. Let's work real hard and sing a tune and we'll be finished pretty soon. When Mister Captain says, 'That's all!' I'll want to jump and shout."

He then gave them some old dried bread. "That's all you get tonight," he said. "Now scamper to the coal hold. I will wake you up at dawn."

The Tinymites did as they were told by Mister Captain, brave and bold. The next thing that the captain knew the tired out band was gone.

Down in the deep coal hold they sat. And soon a voice said, "Where's you at? It was the happy looking cook. He shortly found the bunch. "Hello there! I'm a friendly sort," said he. "To prove that I'm a sport."

RAILROADS CLOSE BUSY PERIOD AND ARE IN GOOB SHAPE

There Are Two Ways, However, of Looking at Rail Earnings

By CHARLES F. SPEARE
(Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press)
Wall Street, New York—Financial Review and Outlook. There are two ways of looking at railroad earnings now being reported in the light of future value of railroad stocks.

One is a short term view and the other emphasizes results over a long period and is associated with a broader perspective for the railroad industry. The first may be somewhat bullish as toward the end of October year earnings began to decrease, and such gross earnings for November as are available indicate a considerable shrinkage in traffic on eastern lines which will probably continue through December. The second should take into account the results for the full ten months of this year and what is in prospect for the greater part of 1930.

Most of the important roads have this week published their October statements. The general results in gross are fairly satisfactory with an increase of about 10 per cent over the same month in 1929. Not operating figures are not so good, however, due to some change in the character of traffic and to large expenditures with about forty roads that have so far reported showing a net decrease of over 7 per cent.

The trunk line system had moderately satisfactory returns in October. The roads in the northwest, on the other hand, suffered severely from the decreased movement of grain, lumber and iron ore.

SOME STILL COMING
Part of the traffic which they lost then is deferred and will come in sight later on. In the southwest earnings were irregular with some of the systems gaining and others losing. A majority of the anthracite coal roads lost ground during the month. Among the soft coal roads Norfolk and Western made a decided gain. Conditions were "spotty" among the leading systems of the south.

Against the current trend of earnings in the industrial centers and in a few of the agricultural states there is the strong background of ten months of good earnings so far this year supplementing the gains in the greater part of the year previous. This is entitled to more consideration when the market values of railroad stocks are being appraised today than the temporary adjustment in earnings to a probable brief period of business decline. And for this reason, there has been an extremely conservative policy among railroad managers in the matter of distributing their expanding profits to shareholders.

Although earnings on property investment until recently had been at the highest since 1927 comparatively few dividend increases have been made. Among them were those of the Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago and Northwestern, Pennsylvania and New York, New Haven & Hartford. In each case the margin of return over the previous dividends had been sufficiently large to justify higher dividend rates.

FIXED CHARGES SAME
With this there has been almost no increase in fixed charges and some strengthening of the financial structure of the roads through the sale of stock in contrast to the previous policy of issuing bonds for capital purposes. The first important financing since the market collapse is that of the Pennsylvania road, which announced an offering of $72,000,000 stock to shareholders and $18,000,000 stock to employees. This is the largest stock offering made by any railroad this year.

The next result of all this is that the railroads went through one of the most prosperous periods in their history without dissipating their resources and in fact, leaning backward as many shareholders felt, in the matter of improving their surplus position. They now are able to face a brief period of reduced earnings with their stocks paying no more than can easily be earned and their cash position strong. At the same time their physical condition has been steadily improved and today is better throughout the country than ever before. It is felt by students of market values that the shrinkage during October and November of about 50 points in the average price of railroad stocks from the high September level has to a large extent discounted several months of earnings that may be poor

OKLAHOMA CITY SEES $300,000 SURPLUS

Oklahoma City, Okla. — The city council under the city manager form of government here expects to have $300,000 surplus to spend this year for permanent improvements. Inclinations are that actual cash returns from taxes for the city will exceed anticipated returns, and that expenses will be also reduced. Royalties paid into the city treasury from an oil gusher on park property have totaled $48,000. Only one well has been drilled so far.

rates on the rest. Such a program is not altogether unacceptable to the old guard and it is likely to prove a vote-getter among the regular Democratic senators. In other words, a liberal conservative fringe in both parties seeks a compromise now with the ultra conservative Republicans and Democrats as a means of up-secting the coalition.

The balance of power is, of course, held by the Democrats. Their leaders thus far have succeeded in keeping the lines intact. Mr. Hoover, after winning several southern states in the election, did not make any particular effort to win their senators.

Rather has his policy been one that has antagonized the southern Democrats. Even at this late date, however, he has a chance to make some inroads in the Democratic party in the south, for certain senators feel the need of protection for industries in their respective states. Will those senators obey the leadership of Senator Robinson and Senator Simmons, or will they go their own ways?

Mr. Robinson departs for the London naval conference in January. Mr. Simmons is up for reelection next year and is being fought by Smith Democrats who felt he deserved the cause of Democracy, when he went over to the Hoover camp last year.

Mr. Simmons is issuing his pronouncements on tariff through the Democratic National committee. He is anxious to show the 1929 campaign was the exception that proved his regularity. So he will hardly follow the Hoover leadership on the tariff. The Democrats, on the other hand, relatives to those to which Wall Street has been accustomed during the past year.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

By George Clark

"You're always complaining that I never show you a good time. When did you ever see a better movie?"

are, in most instances, coming around to the belief that if they are to reap some advantage out of the tariff controversy, they had better let the Republicans pass their tariff bill so that the 1930 campaign speakers will have something to which "no point with alarm."

The situation at the moment is entirely within the ranks of the Republicans. The Hoover group will try to bring about a tariff compromise.

They will take responsibility for it and maybe the Democrats will allow some of their number to go along and help put the compromise into law.

CALIFORNIA HAS DRY THANKSGIVING IN TRUEST SENSE

Rainfall There in Recent Months Has Been Unusually Light

BY BEN G. KLINE

Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
San Francisco—California experienced a dry holiday this Thanksgiving, which statement has nothing to do with the activities of prohibition enforcement agents or the presence or absence of native or imported beverages on tables laden with turkey and other items of the holiday feast. It is meant to indicate that gales, umbrellas and raincoats were not necessary for those who went to football games, took motor trips or attended family homecomings.

In fact it has been so long between showers in most sections of the state that in case heavy clouds did appear the average person probably couldn't find his raincoat, and his umbrella, if he hadn't forgotten it somewhere last spring, would be moth-eaten.

Of course tourists have often encountered "unusual" weather (they call it "climate" in Los Angeles) in California, but the term "unusual" has ordinarily applied to unpleasant days. This year it has been unusually sunny. San Francisco has not had a shower between the fourth of July and Thanksgiving. In the Bay district all the weather men have been able to measure is 12 hundredths of an inch of precipitation in Oakland, and that was the result of one of that city's "unusual" fogs, rather than rain.

Though the state as a whole has been almost without rain all summer and fall, no large centers have as yet been threatened with serious water or power shortage.

CATTLE SUFFER

Agriculture, especially the cattle industry, has suffered somewhat from a lack of moisture, and forest brush and grass fires have been troublesome over a much longer season than usual, but this has been recompensed to an extent by perfect conditions for the harvesting of crops.

In Northern California this has been the driest summer and autumn season since records of rainfall were begun back in the gold rush days and no official or unofficial forecast is rash enough to set a definite

EXHIBIT STONES MADE AT STATE REFORMATORY

Madison — (AP)—Eight or ten grey stones, finished on one face and lined up as though in a building wall, are placed on one of the circular grass plains between the east and south wings of the capitol. They are samples of stone from the state quarry worked by inmates of the Green Bay state reformatory. The miniature wall is erected, without mortar, to show how the stone would look in the new building, soon to be erected near the capitol. The stones marked three in the Capitol almost exactly weathering of the latter considered.

"SILENT WATCHERS" IN WORLD WAR PLATOONS

Madison — (AP)—The Wisconsin National Guard Review editors have found that every platoon during the world war had a "silent watcher" or divisional intelligence worker. This individual, who worked without pay or extra pay, kept close watch date for relief. The federal forecasters did last week say that something was likely to occur over the north end, but there was no change in the weather.

If farmers or shoe shining parties have suffered from the long days of the manufacturers and of the day makers, the oil industry, however, has been the old adage about an old man's tooth good for a fair weather or too. It's been a great season for motoring and for sports, except steelhead fishing.

The coastal streams from San Francisco to the Oregon line have annual runs of these fine trout, but they can't come into the rivers for the winter until sand bars formed during the summer are washed out by the full rains.

This year there have been no rains and natives along the coast tell us of the great schools of fish, millions of them, which are waiting out in the ocean for the opportunity to come up the streams and get caught on artificial fish spawners and things.

Father Jerome Rickard, noted "Tadpole of the rains" down at Santa Clara, predicts from the spots on the sun that the state is in for a good, drenching about next February, so in a couple or three months fishermen are going to have some wonderful sport or else some permanent residents along the coast between here and Oregon are going to be listed as prominent members of a club that the late Teddy Roosevelt made famous.

on all soldiers in his platoon and reported to his superiors any evidence of disloyalty, spies in the ranks, or other conditions adverse to the loyalty and morale of the troops. The magazine of the Badger guards reprints sections from a recent book on secrets of the war and intelligent service.

New York — A 165-story skyscraper a quarter of a mile high, is the dream of Leonard Cox. He has finished tentative plans for the construction of this giant building which will be built of steel and terra cotta, colored all sorts of the rainbow. The building as contemplated would occupy four city blocks.

*This figure represents the number of Postum users who wrote us within a period of only a few months. We have letters from thousands of other people also in our files.

"I have twice the pep I used to have!"
"Nervous?—I'll say I'm not, any more!"
"No more sleepless nights for me!"
"I've said good-bye to indigestion!"

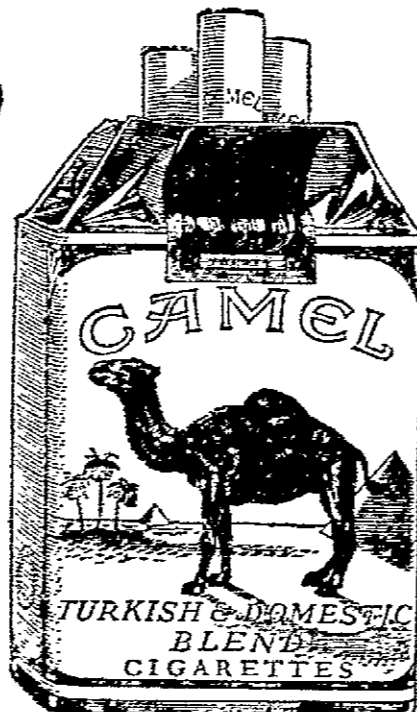

THESE are some of the things 50,539 men and women wrote to us, after making a thirty-day test of Postum. These people had been troubled with nervousness, sleeplessness, indigestion, and headaches. Then, one by one, they discovered that the cause was—drinks containing caffeine. So they gave up caffeine beverages, and drank Postum, instead.

Read again what these men and women found out—and take a tip from them! If your own health is below par, remember that caffeine beverages may be the cause. Send them away from your table! Try Postum for thirty days! You'll feel like a different person, too, before that time is up. You'll feel better, sleep better, look better! Postum contains no caffeine. It is made from roasted whole wheat and bran. Drink Postum plain, or add cream and note the rich brown color. Taste the wonderful flavor of Postum! You'll want to keep on drinking it, as millions of other people are doing!

Postum is very easy to prepare. Your grocer has it in two forms—Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup, and Postum Cereal, the kind you boil. Both cost less than most other meal-time drinks—only one-half cent a cup. Order today. © 1929, C. F. Corp.

it's the blend—and the fragrant tobacco

Camels have always welcomed comparison with any other cigarette because the true test of value is the pleasure to be found in smoking.

The most important thing for smokers to know is that genuine cigarette quality must begin with the selection of tobaccos. Nothing can take the place of quality tobacco. Thus the extraordinary goodness of Camels begins with the choicest tobaccos grown and these are blended with expert skill to achieve the mildness and surpassing fragrance of this great cigarette. It is this genuineness of quality which smokers appreciate when they have passed the experimental stage and know real smoking pleasure.

when they learn the difference they flock to Camels

SECRETARY ADAMS CARRIES OWN TRAY IN NAVY CAFETERIA

Picks Out His Own Food and Stands in Long, Slow Line
With Rest

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, descendant of a long line of ever-distinguished Adames, now trails every day at lunch time in a long line of clerks, lieutenants, stenographers, captains and other Navy Department employees in the big Navy Department cafeteria.

The secretary carries his own tray and picks out his own food all by himself. There is no precedence in the cafeteria and the lines are frequently long and slow in progress. But it's a fine cafeteria, this one of the Navy's, and probably serves the most inexpensive good meals in Washington.

Citizens of Washington are not permitted to vote, but do have civic pride.

Charles W. Darr, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, moaned publicly in a speech the other night as follows:

"The fair name of our city is our proudest possession. Help us keep it. The stories have gone from Washington over telegraph, radio and by telephone to the press of the country, painting a picture of blood running on Pennsylvania avenue as freely as water does in the Potomac river and of the crooks in great gatherings in the capital, have wrought thousands of dollars' damage to the business of the city. Who will think of investing their money here as long as they are presented such a picture of Washington? Just as thousands of tourists have been diverted from the capital by the stories published some time ago describing the traffic conditions here as chaotic, so has investors' money been diverted by stories built upon unsupported and unverified charges against our city officials.

"Stand by our public officials, our police department and the other departments of our city government!"

History may attach considerable importance to the magnifying glass wielded by Senator Furnifold McLendel Simmons of North Carolina, ranking minority member of the Senate Finance Committee and Democratic leader in the tariff fight. The Honorable Furnifold McLendel Simmons is going on 70 years now and his eyes aren't what they used to be. But through the aid of magnifying glass, which he is never without, he has been able to discern an astonishing number of items in the tariff bill presented by Republican committee members which the Democrats ought to oppose. Every day you can see him poring over the bill and its amendments and other relevant material, crouched close over the glass.

And Now A Renaissance In The Bathroom

BY MARGERY TAYLOR
Interior Decoration Editor, McCall's
Magazine. Written For Post-Crescent

More color no longer suffices in the bathroom—just color is almost as passé as the old white clinic effect.

The new bathroom must be a blending of hues that harmonize—and everything must contribute to the ensemble.

For the new Bathroom, there is all the rainbow and more from which to choose.

It may be a work of art in green tiles and lavender plumbing fixtures; a modernist creation of slate-black tile floor, black fixtures and peach tile wainscoting; or a gray symphony of blue fixtures against a yellow background.

Imagination can run riot with the fixtures and tiles in peach, red, blue, ivory, brown, orchid and rose.

Even the old "hospital" bathroom can be transformed with a few good color-notes for a mere song.

Is there a white tile floor?

Paint the wainscoting and wood-work lettuce green, say, or soft yellow, grove blue or a delicate white. The walls, too, may be painted or done over with one of the delightful new sunfast and washable wallpapers.

If you are tired of the old floor, new linoleums provide strikingly unusual combinations. Patterns may be had in cream and black, cream and brick, green, blue—more colors than one can imagine.

With transformed bathrooms the accessory things should be as gay as walls. Fixtures may be in solid colors or interesting designs in two-tone effects, waves, staircases, checks, modernistic flowers. Surely there is something you will like and that will fit into the particular ensemble you have created.

With the new towels in soft pastels, whether you use one color for all or a different one for each, the result is always pleasing. If you prefer the one color effect, you can have towels, wash cloths and bath-mats in the same pattern and in harmonizing tints of the same color or in special ensemble packages.

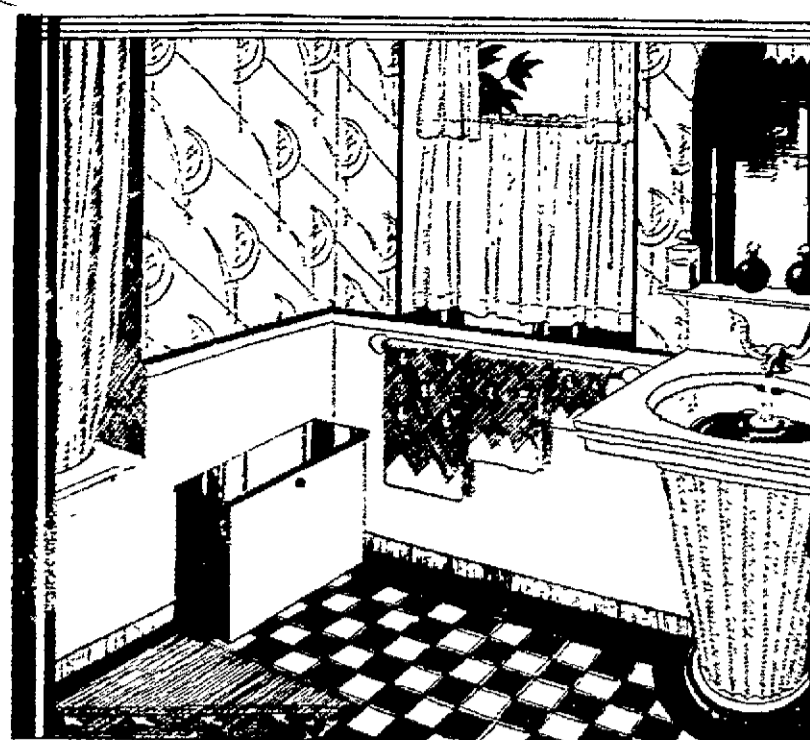

FIRST 100 BILLION HARDEST FOR INSURERS

New York—(AP)—The first hundred billion is the hardest, say life insurance companies, who are not afraid of big figures.

The Association of Life Insurance Presidents is hoping to make the exportation of policies an important item in America's foreign trade in the next few years.

They say that they are directing their principal efforts toward the great foreign populations which have never been trained to the value of life insurance.

It is in Europe, Asia and th. British dominions that they hope to obtain the "second hundred billion."

And now the ensemble effect in bathrooms!

GRAPH OF STOCK FOR YEAR IS LIKE CHURCH STEEPLE

Third Week in September
Represents Pinnacle—Fall
Is Rapid

BY WILLIAM R. KUHNS

New York—(AP)—The stock market graph for 1929 will look like a church steeple.

The pinnacle will represent the memorable third week in September when the average price of common stocks reached their high level for all time.

Starting with February, 1928 it took the stock list 19 months of laborious climbing to hit the top. Scarcely a fortnight was needed, once the debacle got under way, to carry prices back to their level of February, 1928.

At the beginning of 1927 the three principal classes of stocks—rails, industries and public utilities—got away to a fairly even start. They were slightly above the average for 1926, but no higher than they had been for a few weeks in the fall of that year.

Toward the middle of the year industries broke away and took a slight lead over rails and utilities. It seems almost like ancient history to record that utilities, which were destined to achieve an outstanding popularity in less than two years, lagged behind both rails and utilities until after the middle of 1927.

Utilities passed the rails on an upward swing in the third quarter of 1927 and began to creep up on the soaring industries. It was not until the end of 1928, however, that utilities came abreast and by that time the average prices of both rails and utilities were almost twice what they had been at the beginning of 1927.

In the second quarter of 1929 utilities leaped ahead of industries in the speed of their advance and began the last dizzy climb that was to end catastrophically.

In June of this year both rails and industries felt the violent upward pull of the public utility group but even at their highest points were far short of the point of the steeple on which the utilities perched.

UNCLE SAM SHOWS ENTIRE WORLD HOW TO POLICE ETHER

"Automatic Traffic Cops"
Will Be Sold to Foreign Countries

BY ROBERT MACK

Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Washington—Uncle Sam, who has set the pace for the rest of the world in radio, also is teaching it how to police the ether.

When radio sprang into the public eye a decade ago as a tremendous potential medium of reaching the people, the government realized that it would have to be regulated, not alone by law, but by physical force. It fell on the lot of the radio division of the commerce department to supervise radio, and it has been doing an admirable job.

Starting from scratch, with no methods then known of checking stations to ascertain whether they were operating on their specified channels, and thus not interfering with other stations, the division had to improvise its own equipment. There was no commercial market for apparatus.

But, under the immediate direction of William D. Terrell, chief of the division, monitoring apparatus, or "automatic traffic cops" of the ether have been developed. And pursuant to designs and specifications drafted by the division, they will be placed in commercial manufacture, and will be available to all nations.

So far as is known, no other nation has developed accurate methods of checking the operations of their stations, whether broadcasting or code, to determine the accuracy of their signals. Just as soon as the commercial company now manufacturing the monitoring apparatus for the radio division, begins its commercial production, many countries undoubtedly will order the equipment.

The apparatus now in use by the radio inspectors throughout the country was constructed by the field inspection service. It consists largely in six radio test cars, which cruise about their assigned territories and listen in on stations, checking their frequencies. During the fiscal year ended last June, for example, 374 of the 614 licensed broadcasting stations were checked as to the frequency of their signals.

Within the next few months, the radio division will have in operation the new equipment now on order. This will include a "master traffic cop," or constant-frequency monitoring station, to be situated in the geographic center of the country, at Grand Island, Neb. The entire range of the radio spectrum will

FORD COKE IN A SPECIAL SIZE FOR DOMESTIC COKE USERS WHO KNOW ITS ADVANTAGES— FORD PEA COKE

Product of the Ford Motor Company

FORD PEA COKE offers an opportunity to save money to many domestic coke users. No smoke, no soot. Very few ashes. Practically all heat, without waste. This coke sells at less per ton than any other size of domestic coke.

Ford Pea Coke is unusually economical, and the uniform small size offers special advantages to those who know how to use it. It is exceptionally easy to control and bank, because the air does not penetrate through the denser mass of fuel so quickly. Holds fire and heat for a long time, and requires no more attention than the larger sizes. When properly fed, with a layer of ashes on the grate, you will not be troubled with good fuel dropping through into your ash-pit.

Ford Pea Coke is made by the Ford Motor Company, according to the strictest Ford standards, and always from the same high-quality coal from Ford-owned mines.

Make your fuel dollars stretch as far as they possibly can. Order a binful of Ford Pea Coke now, for its greater economy.

(Use Ford Charcoal Briquets for starting furnace and for grate fires)

SHOW BIG BERTHA ON MANY DRESSES

Of Lace or Pleated Chiffon, It Enlivens Darker Materials

BY AILEEN LAMONT

Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
New York—A Big Bertha, often pointed at the front in accordance with colonial as well as 1830 styles, is a delightful feature of many dresses now.

The Bertha is of lace or pleated chiffon, and in addition to enlivening a dark dress or softening a bright one, it has a talent for making the slim figure look plumper and the plump figure slim.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Maurer at Denmark, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. George Schafer, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Borne, Mrs. Mary Maurer, Mr. and Mrs. Mat Maurer, Miss Margaret Tielon, Elaine Schafer, Marie Strebe and Irvin Maurer. Five hundred was played and prizes awarded: Mrs. Matt Maurer and Irvin Maurer.

mer. A Bertha of gold or silver lace on the close-fitting bodice of an evening gown has proved a boon to many a size 42.

You know the overalls worn by athletic debutantes who like to pitch hay on father's farm in the merry summertime? Well, the aristocratic version of those blue jeans is now a boudoir garment. Overalls are pajamas. They have a sleeveless jacket of, for example, old rose, and figured in old rose, green, and brick. There really are real suspender straps of the material holding up the trousers, just as if the wearer were prepared for picking hay instead of—pardon—slipping.

London women at the smartest places are appearing in printed moiré evening gowns. Often the background is black, sprinkled with a bright floral pattern, and the material thus achieves a quaintly old-fashioned effect in keeping with the modern old-fashioned silhouette. A gown strewn with prim little posies in which appears a coral bud now and then had as accessories a three-strand necklace of vivid red coral and coral crepe slippers.

3 BILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF BUILDING WILL GET UNDER WAY

And More Money Will Be Spent Later if Plans Are Carried Out

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Washington — The next three months will see three billion dollars worth of construction under way, with additional billions to be expended later if plans now outlined by the railroads, public utilities, federal, state and municipal governments and other factors in the building trade progress as indicated by President Hoover's conference.

Construction costs are at a level where building is advantageous. They have been maintained with considerable steadiness throughout the year and while they are slightly higher than at this time in 1928 the advance has not been sufficient to discourage new projects. Average wages are high but there has been a general understanding between labor and capital that wages will not be reduced and also that wage advances will not be demanded. The level of building material prices is also well stabilized and in fact is lower than it was a year ago. The amount to be expended in the next three months means comparatively little until the channels through which the huge sums will flow are given consideration.

AFFECTS ALL INDUSTRY
There is scarcely an industry in America which will not be affected to at least some degree. The lumber industry is due to benefit immediately. At the present time the situation is not as good as it was a year ago. Unfilled orders have shown a decrease in late months and while production and shipments have been reduced, in many weeks they have exceeded the volume of new business. The lumber business accounts for a large volume of employment both in the south and northwestern Pacific states and normally takes over a good share of unskilled labor released from the harvest fields in the autumn.

Production of cement and cement mill capacity have outrun demand and prices have been low. The new construction plan will require a tremendous volume of cement work both for building purposes and for state highway and bridge construction and for hydroelectric projects. The industry has been benefited also by new types of skyscraper design, some of which provide for solid concrete at the base on which foundations rest.

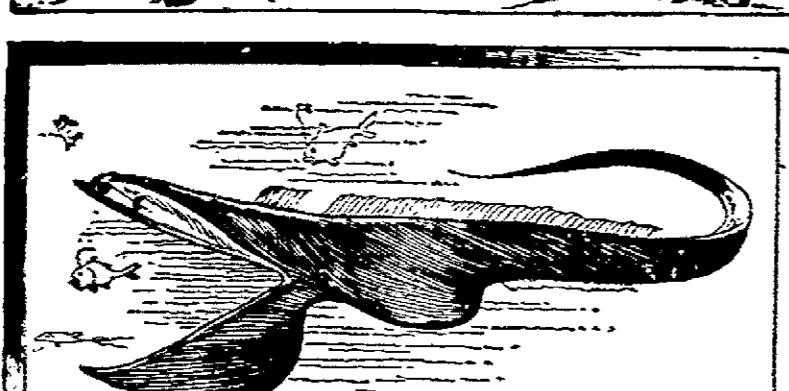

Steel for building purposes is in greater demand than ever. Steel production this year probably will fully equal or exceed 55,000,000 tons and a goodly proportion of this is needed in the form of structural and fabricated steel products. The steel mills are the backbone of employment throughout many of the industrial centers. In addition to supplying needs for structural shapes, the steel industry will find an increasing outlet for production among the machinery manufacturers, the truck builders, the railroad freight car producers and the manufacturers of plumbing and heating equipment.

MATERIALS AID FREIGHT
Makers of brick, tile and fireproofing now can count on a definite volume of orders and gauge the pay-offs and production accordingly. All of the volume of building materials becomes potential freight revenue for the transportation companies, including railroads, inland waterways carriers and motor transport operators who must carry this load and must in consequence expend large sums on maintenance and new equipment. The existence of such conditions throughout the country, according to government economists, involves a heavy volume of employment. The building trades are the highest paid in the United States and building payrolls from perhaps the largest payroll holding up the buying power of the country.

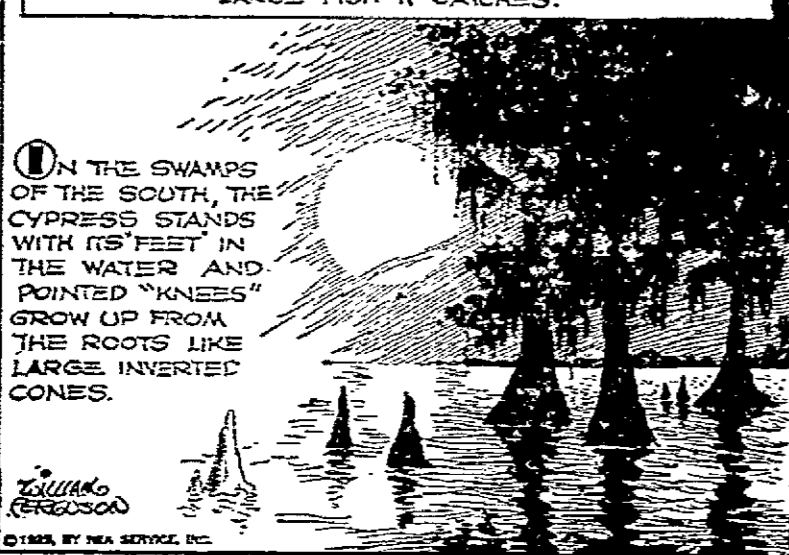

Even the white-collar workers will benefit since the activity in the mills, shops and factories will necessitate an added amount of clerical and accounting work.

The existing sustained buying power resulting from undiminished employment is the prime necessity for prosperity among the grocers and retail merchants. So long as they know that the industrial payrolls indicated above will not be curtailed and that the volume of cash will continue to flow weekly

Record Prices Brought By Books, Manuscripts

London — (AP) — Books and manuscripts have brought record prices at Sotheby's lately. Sir James Barrie, George Bernard Shaw, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and H. G. Wells being especially popular.

Five books by Sir James Barrie that 30 years ago were sold for less than $2 ($10) were purchased for a total of $457 ($2,235).

Gabriel Wells, New York collector, paid a record price of $110 ($550) for "A Window in Trams," which was published in 1899 for six shillings. Wells also paid another record fee when he bought a Burns letter containing the verses, "The Kirk's Alarm," for $1,810 ($9,050).

A first edition of Shaw's "Widow's Houses" also went to Wells for $29 ($409). He had previously picked up the original manuscript of the play at a large price.

The bulk of the correspondence between Shaw and Mr. Vedrenne who produced Shaw's plays at the court and Savoy theatres 25 years ago, also went to the New York collector. The top price of $20 ($200) brought him, Shaw's unpublished poem to Ellen Terry on her stage jubilee.

"Oh, Ellen, was it kind of fate, To make your youth so thrifty, That you are young at fifty-eight, While we are old at fifty?" One of the big surprises to collectors was the sum of $245 ($1,225) that went for the manuscript of "The Adventures of the Speckled Band," generally considered the favorite of the Sherlock Holmes stories. "The Lost World" found a ready buyer at $160 ($800).

H. G. Wells shared in the day's success, a collection of first editions bringing a total of $146 ($730).

QUIT FARMING IF YOU DON'T LIKE IT

But if You Enjoy Work, Give It All You Can, Brown-co Farmers Are Told

BY W. F. WINSEY
Pine Grove — "If we do not like farming, let us neglect it and get out of it as soon as possible, but if we do like it let us put the best in us into it and get the most out of it."

This was the appeal made by T. J. Patterson, a farmer, to a group of farmers at a herd improvement meeting at the home of F. M. Munkusky Wednesday forenoon. The meeting was one of 27 in the drive for more members for cow testing associations in Brown-co, conducted by County Agent J. N. Kavanagh, assisted by Mr. Patterson, a representative of the College of Agriculture, Arlie Munkus, secretary of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association, C. H. Imby, College of Agriculture, and County Agents H. M. Lathrop and Gust Sell.

The Pine Grove meeting was attended by 29 local dairymen, a large proportion of whom were reaping the financial advantages that come directly to owners from testing their cows for production. Mr. Patterson and Mr. Lathrop were the principal speakers. Other speakers were L. J. Larson, Arthur Sading and H. C. Seales.

Lathrop said that to get advice about conducting the proposed drive for more members, he called in 24 of the most successful dairymen of Keweenaw county for a conference. These men said that whatever progress they had made in dairying was based: (1) Upon testing their cows for production; (2) upon culling and weeding out low producers from their herds; (3) upon feeding balanced rations to each cow in proportion to her production; (4) upon using sizes of known production that could raise the production of their herds above that of their dams; (5) keeping herds free from tuberculosis and abortion; and (6) upon using stress long enough to test the production of their daughters.

"I Never Suffer With Indigestion Any More"

Draco is made from the juices of twelve roots, leaves, barks and berries, imported from all the four corners of the earth, and are so compounded to produce the best results. In this statement, Mr. Louis Larson

Louis Larson, a prominent farmer, living on Route 4, Eau Claire, Wis., will tell you in his own words just how this remarkable remedy rid him of pain and a miserable feeling after all other medicines and treatments failed. He said:

"I suffered untold misery with a bad stomach, everything I ate would ferment and lay in my stomach like a lump of lead. I would suffer for hours afterwards until this food would start to digest. I was always constipated and my liver was torpid. Try as I would I just couldn't find a medicine that would give me any relief until I took Draco. Now I feel like a man living in a new world. My health has improved 100%. My stomach is in a wonderful condition and I want to tell other sufferers to take Draco and put an end to their troubles."

LOVE ONLY DISEASE LIKE MEASLES, THIS PHYSICIAN EXPLAINS

Munk — (AP) — To millions of men and women the world over love may still be life's great romance, but to Dr. Waldemar Schweisselmer it is nothing more than a disease to be compared with measles. This physician has just published a volume—"Love Only a Disease"—in which he subjects love to purely clinical, laboratory analysis.

He draws a parallel between love and measles and contends that in the person "afflicted" with love there is a disposition for the "disease," he explains that, just like a cold, it is not caught by every person who shakes hands with another, so the love-germs are not inoculated in every case indiscriminately.

He then argues that, as in all infections, the "love disease" has its incubation period between its inception and crisis. This, he writes, is diptheria. The infection does not make one violently ill immediately after the germs have lodged themselves in the human system. Love at first sight, the physician holds, is exceptional as the sudden breaking out of scarlet fever.

Once the "love-disease" has taken root, Dr. Schweisselmer says, symptoms are indelible. The eyes are blurred, the face becomes pale, the heart palpitates, sleep is irregular and the sufferer loses weight. Those unhappy in love may fade away like flowers deprived of sunshine and water. On the other hand, like faded

DESERT CHANGED INTO FARM LAND

149,995 Acres Reclaimed Through Irrigation by U. S. Engineers

Washington — (AP) — Engineers of the reclamation service, by putting water where there was no water before, turned 149,995 acres of gray desert into blossoming farm land during 1928.

The addition to the irrigated land of the country brought the total to 2,670,515 acres, bearing crops valued at $248,372,000, an increase in value of $10,355,860 over the last fiscal year.

Engineering policies of the reclamation service, Commissioner Mead said today in his annual report, had demonstrated their soundness, but economic phases of reclamation, in the commissioner's opinion, are still drifting. With this in mind he has called for an economic survey of the entire field and expects it to be completed during the fiscal year of 1930.

The future of reclamation, he added, would depend largely on the results of this investigation. It is believed that data to be gathered will be helpful in determining what can and should be done to improve conditions on projects already running and in aiding congress to enacting desirable legislation.

IMPLEMENT DEALERS MEET NEXT WEEK

BODIES OF 75 VETS WHO DIED IN RUSSIA ARRIVE IN AMERICA

56 Will Be Sent by Special Train to Detroit for Burial

New York—(AP)—The last of the returning American World war dead—75 doughboys who gave their lives for their country in far-off Russia—were home today.

After ten years in lonely graves in the ice-covered Russian tundra and a trip half way around the world, they received the full military honors of the nation as the United States liner President Roosevelt brought them to their home shores. Delayed by winter sales, not unlike those faced by that small allied force at the Archangel front during the winter of 1918-19, the ship coasted off quarantine shortly before 3 o'clock this morning.

Official honors started here with the destroyer Kane, the municipal tug Macom, and an airplane escort assigned as a guard of honor for the 10-mile trip up the harbor to the liner's Hoboken pier.

Delegations aboard the two escorting ships represented the nation, the cities of Detroit and New York, the state of Michigan, which furnished most of the men for the Russian campaign, and representatives of patriotic orders.

Flags on public buildings in New York were at half staff, while at the Hoboken pier elaborate military ceremonies were arranged.

A special room was set apart for the dead and soldiers of the 15th infantry assigned as a guard of honor. The Rev. Wallace Hayes, of Rutland, Vt., national chaplain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, through whose efforts the bodies were brought back to this country, was in charge of a memorial service.

Another brief service will be held at the Pennsylvania Railroad station here tomorrow after which 56 of the bodies will be started by special train for Detroit.

HONORS PAID ENROUTE Enroute to Detroit honors will be paid to the funeral train by various cities. At North Philadelphia, the first stop, a firing squad and a bugle corps will greet the train; at Harrisburg, Pa., a troop of national guardsmen will stand at attention while Gov. John S. Fisher delivers an address; at Pittsburgh as the train passes there tomorrow night other honors will be paid by World war veterans.

Arriving in Detroit Sunday afternoon, the train will be met by an official delegation. Led by Gov. Frederick W. Green and troops from Fort Wayne. After services at City Hall Square the bodies will be placed in vaults until next Memorial day when they will be laid to rest in a special plot.

Of the other bodies, three will be shipped to Washington for burial in Arlington National cemetery; Two Paris—A radical depreciation of tourist business next year is expected here as one far-flung repercussion of the Wall Street collapse.

Business men who have not been directly hit by the American fall in prices feel that the wave of disaster will begin to be felt the next spring and destroy what has been anticipated as another big year.

An official of a prominent tourist agency has figured that there will be a big reduction in travel from the United States in 1930. He said he would not be surprised if the cut would be close to fifty per cent of this year's total.

"The majority of the tourists during the past two or three years have undoubtedly been of the class hit by the Wall Street collapse," he said.

"They made their money quickly and stepped out to realize that common ambition to see something of the world. Easy come, easy go, and they spent money freely when they were over here, confident that they could go back and recoup on the market again. This class of tourist will not be so evident next year. Also I fear there will be fewer students traveling—youth men and women who have been so noticeable in European capitals during the summer months of the last three years."

Such a slump in travel will hit luxury stores and all branches of the lighter side of Paris life. Proprietors of bars and night clubs so popular with Americans are particularly dismayed and worried.

"I am afraid that unless the market comes back sharply we are going to have the worst season next year of any years since the war," said Joe Zelli, widely-known and popular Montmartre night club proprietor. Joe lost his merry smile while he was figuring the bad prospects. "A great many of our friends have been ruined by the collapse and so they won't be over next year. All summer I listened to advice on how to beat Wall Street, but now Wall Street doesn't look so easy. I am afraid the old Royal Box will be vacant many a night next summer."

Steamship agencies report heavy bookings since the prices began to fall, indicating that many Americans

CHIEF OF M'CORMICK NURSE STAFF TESTIFIES

Santa Barbara, Calif.—(AP)—Kenneth McKillip, 61-year-old chief of Stanley McCormick's male nursing staff, today was called upon to recount further intimate details of the multi-millionaire incompetent's life under cross-examination by Newton D. Baker.

The principals in Mrs. McCormick's suit to oust Harold F. McCormick and Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, brother and sister of Stanley, as guardians of her invalid husband, spent yesterday participating in holiday festivities.

Baker indicated he would question McKillip at length regarding McCormick's physical and mental condition over a period of years, and probably would keep the witness on the stand through most of the day's court session.

er, counsel for Mrs. Katharine McCormick, wife of the wealthy invalid. McKillip, who completed his direct testimony and was on the stand for cross-examination Wednesday when court adjourned for the Thanksgiving holiday, said he had lived continuously with McCormick since the millionaire became insane in 1905. He testified in detail regarding the patient's life under complete or partial restraint at River Rock, the McCormick estate near here.

DENTISTS DEMAND MORE PRIVILEGES IN ALCOHOL DEAL

Claim Their Need Is Even More Imperative Than Is Doctors

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1929, by Const. Press
New York—Whiskey is the best antidote for novocaine. Advancing this and other reasons, dentists from coast to coast—about 4,000 of them to date—are planning to move on Washington and fight for an ever-break with the doctors on allotments of alcohol and prescription-writing privileges.

The National Society of Dentists
heads the movement, not on the ground that four out of five already have it, but that alcohol may be and frequently is more urgently and immediately needed in their profession than in the medical profession. Henry Kaplan of San Francisco, executive secretary of the society, arrived in New York today to capout a New York advisory board for the campaign, after a tour of the country in which he appointed similar boards in twelve other large cities.

Mr. Kaplan said the society expected to place a petition bearing the names of more than 25,000 American dentists in the hands of Dr. J. M.
Doran, commissioner of prohibition, asking that each dentist be allowed annually the present doctor's allowance of six quarts of whiskey and five gallons of alcohol and that dentists be allowed the same prescription output as the doctors.

Mr. Kaplan displayed the printed declaration of the society "to secure for the members of our profession
the same rights according to the members of the medical profession and osteopathic physicians.

WANT WHISKEY STIMULANT
"They even allow chiropractors to draw out whiskey," said Mr. Kaplan. "Anyone can see that a dentist needs whiskey to put in a patient's mouth more than a chiro-podist needs it to put on his foot."

Mr. Kaplan denied that he was talking about corn whiskey.
The National Society of Dentists
was formed, Mr. Kaplan explained, after the American Dental Association had failed to take aggressive action in procuring for the profession an even rating with doctors of medicine in the matter of alcohol permits. It now has about 4,000 members and signs of the petition.

The society is a California incorporation, with headquarters in San Francisco, the officers all being Californians. Dr. J. Claude Perry is president; Dr. W. S. Beach vice president;
Dr. J. H. Conroy, secretary, and Dr.
H. M. McKinley, treasurer. Questioned in detail about the needs of the dental profession for alcohol, Mr.
Kaplan said:

In discussing that, I prefer to quote Dr. Perry, as I am not a doctor of either medicine or dentistry.
The position of the association, as outlined by Dr. Perry is that whiskey is the most effective antidote for novocaine and is often urgently needed. More than 50 per cent of dentists have found the use of whiskey equally effective following the administration of nitrous oxide gas and in cases of syncope.

"Dentists have more need for this stimulant than physicians. At present, under prohibition laws, they are allowed only two gallons of alcohol annually, to be used for sterilizing and antiseptic purposes. There is no provision under the law to provide a whiskey stimulant, which in many cases is absolutely necessary.

They are accorded the right to use narcotics and it is hardly understandable why they cannot prescribe whiskey as physicians do."

DENTISTS BAND TOGETHER

More than 4,000 dentists throughout the country have banded together and are seeking to have this situation rectified. We expect that when the widespread need of this prescription right is fully known,
the request will be received favorably by the prohibition directors. The dentists should have their full rights restored. A canvass of members of the Pacific Coast Dental Association, which recently met in San Francisco,
indicated that a majority of its members favored the campaign.

Every officer and member of our organization is a highly reputable dentist and motivated only by the highest professional purposes.

Mr. Kaplan and the members of the advisory boards appointed:

Northwestern Gets Three Places On Big Ten Team

Kimberly Cagers Open Season Friday Night

CONFERENCE SQUAD PICKED BY COACHES, ASSOCIATED PRESS

Berghem Goes to Fullback and Nagurski Gets Tackle Assignment

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO—(AP)—Russell Berghem, Northwestern's workhorse backfield star, is placed as fullback on the 1929 All-Western conference football team, picked for the Associated Press by nine Big Ten coaches and to place him there, the coaches elected to switch Bronko Nagurski, one of Minnesota's greatest stars, from fullback to tackle.

Second team—Ends: Baker, Northwestern and Volz, Illinois; tackle: Les Gordon, Illinois and Westra, Iowa; guard: Ted Michigan and Parks, Wisconsin; Quarterback: Holman, Ohio State; halfbacks: Pharrner, Minnesota, and Hal Rehholz, Wisconsin; fullback, Gembis, Michigan.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, 57-year-old coach of the university Chicago eleven, adhered to his policy of not naming players for "all-stars," saying that he felt qualified only to select a team from the squad with which he worked each during the season.

Berghem, a tall, powerful player, was the key man in Northwestern's offensive scheme, doing the punting, passing and a great share of the running. Coach Dick Hanley probably would have had a difficult time without him, following the injury which took Hank Bruder from the squad. Bruder had done the punting and passing, but Berghem stepped into the breach and handled both jobs so well as to be largely responsible for Northwestern's victories over Illinois and Ohio State.

Glen Harmon, one of the four riveters who played his part in giving Purdue its first Big Ten football title, was an almost unanimous choice for quarterback. Harmon passed and ran and was ranked as a superior defensive back.

Captain Willis Glassgow of Iowa, and Ralph Welch of Purdue, were also choices for the halfback positions. Glassgow, playing through almost the whole season with an iron mask to protect a shattered cheekbone, probably was unsurpassed as a ball carrier, and with his ability also to pass and kick, was ranked as the man to watch when opponents tackled Iowa's defense. Glassgow left little to be desired.

Welch did not carry the ball as often as last season, but was always a ground gaining threat. His defensive work and blocking, was invaluable in the Purdue drive to the championship. Sacrificing opportunities to carry the ball, he crashed out ahead of Harmon and Yunevich, starting them toward lone gains.

With the exception of the ends, the line jobs gave the pickers trouble. Wesley Fesler of Ohio State, and Bob Tanner of Minnesota, were the class of the wingmen and were picked by almost every coach. Fesler, a 1928 selection, was the pick of the offensive ends, and his defensive work was good enough to earn scrutiny. Although closely watched, Fesler took passes from Holman all season, and his alert play was a factor in making Ohio State look like a contender until the season was nearly finished.

Tanner dominated the ends in defensive play, and was a sure pass receiver. He was fast down under kicks and his deadly tackling kept opposing backs away from his side of the line. Although handicapped by an uncertain ankle all season, Tanner never failed to turn in a better than good performance.

Shouted about to patch up holes in a team that looked reserve power to make it great, Nagurski stood out with Elmer "Red" Sleight of Purdue, as the pick of a number of line tackles. Possessed of tremendous power and deadly tackling ability, Nagurski played a great game at tackle, and found time to drop back to fullback to score a pair of touchdowns that gave Minnesota victory over Wisconsin. He was the fastest man on the Gopher squad, and Coach Spears characterized him as a player who rarely made a mistake in judgment, either as a back or a line man.

Sleight played clever football in the Purdue line, keeping his feet well and seldom being caught out of position. His speed and power made him a misery to opposing punters who found many of their attempts blocked by the hard-charging Boomerback star.

Fred Roberts and Captain Henry Anderson of Northwestern received the guard assignments over a powerful field. Roberts was not the biggest lineman in the league, but he looked it in action. He was the balanced guard in the Big Ten, according to the coaches, being equally capable on offense and defense. His tackling and judgment were far above par.

Anderson was a battling type who charged hard and certainly, and was fast enough to sit in well in interference. He tackled well and was a fine blocker when called out to run ahead of Berghem and the other Northwestern backs.

Uzudun To Quit If He Loses To Tuffy Griffiths

BY JOHN J. ROMANO

NEW YORK—Paulino Uzudun risks his future ring career Friday evening at the Chicago stadium in a 10-round contest with Tuffy Griffiths. Paulino has not been in the ring since the fearful beating he took at the hands of Max Schmeling here and has asserted that unless he can whip the walloping youngster from Sioux City, Iowa, he will give up the game for good and retire.

The Basque has asked two postponements in order to be right for Tuffy. A bad injury to his right elbow curtailed the use of his hand so that he was unable to do himself justice against the German Jack Dempsey, he said. Paulino says he is right now and the match is on.

With the exception of the ends, the line jobs gave the pickers trouble. Wesley Fesler of Ohio State, and Bob Tanner of Minnesota, were the class of the wingmen and were picked by almost every coach. Fesler, a 1928 selection, was the pick of the offensive ends, and his defensive work was good enough to earn scrutiny. The place at center was a tight battle between Mickey Erickson of Northwestern, and Ed Kawa of Illinois. Erickson received the verdict by one vote, chiefly due to his great work against Illinois. He was a smart defensive player, calling enemy formations for his mates, and in four important games, he intercepted forward passes at critical moments. Howard of Michigan, and Barrett of Ohio State were ranked close to the two leaders.

IRISH AND ARMY MOVE ON SCENE OF ANNUAL GRID GAME

Navy and Dartmouth Battle Saturday in Another Feature Show

NEW YORK—(AP)—Notre Dame and the Army moved today toward the scene of their annual battle, scheduled for unfolding before 30,000 spectators at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow.

With football togs laid away at most football capitals, a representative group of coaches and graduate managers swept into the city for the double purpose of seeing what promises to be a great game and of learning what they might from the play of the two traditional rivals.

Although facing the game without the services of Tim Moynihan, star center, Notre Dame remains a prohibitive favorite, but the Cadets cling to the hope of an upset.

Despite the apparent disparity in the strength of the teams, tickets were practically unobtainable at any price. Speculators held a very few which were quoted all the way up to $100 a pair, with owners holding out for even more money.

Even though Notre Dame and the Army spread eagle their field in the east and the nation in football's grand finale, other important games will be played in the Atlantic coast sector tomorrow—games which will attract other tens of thousands of spectators. Indications at Philadelphia are that almost 70,000 will enter Franklin field to watch the Navy and Dartmouth battle.

Up at Boston, all eyes will be up on the annual struggle between Holy Cross and Boston college where two evenly matched elevens will fight it out.

Green Bay Team Has Ball on 12 Yard Line as Gun Ends Game

Philadelphia—(AP)—Weekend by their strenuous game with the New York Giants last week, the Green Bay Packers could do no better than a 0-0 tie with the Frankford Yellowjackets of Philadelphia in a Thanksgiving day engagement.

The Wisconsin team, however, made its claim to the National pro league title more secure because the Yellowjackets were the last formidable opponent on the schedule. Only two games remain and Packers wins are conceded in both.

Both elevens had scattered chances to count, but the sterling defensive measure of the rival line men stopped the trusts whenever they became menacing. However, as the game ended, Larry Dilweg, great Packer end, had just snared a pass from Lewellen on the Jackets' 12-yard line and the Bays appeared to be on their way to victory.

Whenever the Jackets threatened, the Bay line took charge and stopped the attack on the ground. The Badger secondary smothered attempts in the air. Then it was up to Lewellen to boot the Badger out of danger. Several times he got off punts of more than 70 yards and in the second period his five punts averaged 75 yards.

Eastern Grid Crown To Pittsburgh As It Wins From Penn State, 20-6

Penn Surprises Cornell and Dobie's Team Is Beaten 17 to 7

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(AP)—The mythical eastern football championship has fallen into the hands of Pittsburgh's mighty panther army with Coziate only a step behind.

With Big Tom Parkinson as a battering ram, the Panthers crunched their way through a strong and battling Penn state line yesterday to wind up their regular season unbeaten and untied in nine games. While the Panthers were coming from behind to trounce the Nittany Lions from State college, a heavy and bony Coziate eleven was giving Brown a terrific beating, 22 to 0.

So far as the records go, these two games were the standpoints in an interesting and spectacular Thanksgiving day of football, in which Penn surprised Cornell with a 17-7 win.

Question—Suppose the batter who bats out of turn flies out. What happens?
Answer—If the mistake is discovered at the right time the proper batsman is the one who is out and he is always the one out.

Question—At what age can a boy begin to pitch?
Answer—At any age that he can begin to play baseball.

Question—How does Fidel La Barba rank with the top notchers of the featherweight division?
Answer—La Barba on his showing against Kid Chocolate, many experts think is the ranking challenger for the title, places him on a par with Chocolata.

Question—Suppose first and second bases are occupied and an infielder bats the runners advance bases?
Answer—No. When an infielder bats the runners advance bases at their own risk.

Question—Team A kicks off. Team B man catches. He throws the ball on a lateral pass across field to a better runner. Team A man coming down field intercepts the pass and runs for a touchdown. Referee in game in which I played ruled no touchdown. Was this correct?
Answer—It seems to be correct according to the rule covering running with recovered kicks. Officials of fame say they would call the ball back. Strikes the writer as a queer ruling since the kick had been completed.

MEET OSSIE COOKE AND HIS ALL-STARS AT K. G. CLUBHOUSE

McAuliffe, Barnum, Davy and Diebold With Invading Quintet

Kimberly—The Kimberly club basketball team will go into action here at 8:30 tonight against L. O. "Ossie" Cooke and his all-stars of Madison.

Nothing needs to be said about Ossie. All basketball fans of the Fox river valley remember and he brings one of the greatest collections of basketball stars anyone ever hopes to see on a basketball court. McAuliffe, who was one of the greatest stars ever turned out by Beloit college who has played with all the leading basketball teams of the state and middle west, is with Cooke.

Davy, an all mid-west forward from Ripon college; Diebold and Barnum both former University of Wisconsin captains and guards; and Diwold is an all Pacific coast man and is teaching chemistry at the university.

McAuliffe was coach at Appleton high school a few years ago while Barnum is one of two nine letter men at Wisconsin in recent years.

For Kimberly the starting lineup has not been announced but it is pretty certain that the following lineup will be the starters: Koll and Gossens at forwards; Williams and Busch at guards; and either Courchane or Reetz at center. In Koll and Gossens the fans will see two of the greatest midget forwards in this part of the state. Both have good eyes for the hoop on any kind of shots with Gossens a bear under the hoop. Williams and Busch have always held their own with any guards and have been looking good in the last few practices. At center the Kimberly team will again be without the jump. However what Reetz and Courchane lack in the jump they expect to overcome in defense and offensive work. Besides these men there will be a host of new and old material on the sidelines waiting for a chance to get in the game.

A preliminary schedule to get underway at 8:30 and will be entered by William Eicket of Appleton. According to the advanced ticket sale a record crowd will attend.

NEVERS STARS AND CARDS BEAT BEARS

Chicago—(AP)—Ernie Nevers had some great days when he played fullback for Stanford, but none better than he had in leading the Chicago Cardinals to a 40 to 6 victory over the Chicago Bears for the city pro football championship yesterday.

Nevers ripped and tore through the Bear line for six touchdowns, and converted four of the extra points, for the Cardinals' whole collection of points.

M. U. TURNS AGGIE PASSES TO SCORES AND WINS, 25 TO 6

Sisk Races 85 Yards on Kickoff to Score First Touchdown

MILWAUKEE.—(C) Converting the Kansas Aggie style of play to their own advantage, Marquette's Hilltoppers yesterday romped off with a 25 to 6 victory as 8,000 half-frozen fans watched.

Passes the Jayhawk aggregation ad relied on to gain ground where he plays failed proved to be just that Marquette had wanted as the second half opened with both teams scoreless. An 85-yard run for touchdown on the kickoff, three intercept-forward passes gave the Hilltoppers an overwhelming margin. Rad's inability to kick goal on three of the scores kept the tally from being larger.

At the start of the third quarter Sisk shared Tackwell's kickoff on a 55-yard line and raced down the right sideline for 57 yards to the Kansas Aggie goal.

Don McMillan's Kansas Aggies, unable to puncture the line or turn the tide, began passing. Sisk snatched a throw by McMillan on his own 40-yard line and again galloped down the right side of the field for his second touchdown. Early in the fourth quarter Klaus gave Marquette its third tally when he intercepted one of McMillan's passes on its own 25-yard line and ran 75 yards to the Aggie goal.

With less than three minutes to play, quarterback Gil Corbett sagged a McMillan pass on the Kansas 25-yard line. After a 24-yard run he tackled three feet from the goal, but fell over the line. His time, Radick made good on his last kick.

His Aggie escaped a whitewash when Auker heaved a 35-yard pass to quarterback Evans, who ran 15 yards for the score. Evans missed his kick from placement.

Statistics show Marquette's superiority in what was the last game of the season for both teams. The Hilltoppers made 12 first downs to Kansas' 8; 89 yards from scrimmage on 12 plays as against 21 on 23 Aggie plays; completed seven of 20 passes; 6 to 23 for the Aggies and intercepting four passes to two by the Aggies.

Major Leaguers Not Ready To Give Up Farms

BY JOHN D. FOSTER
Copyright 1929

NEW YORK.—Once more the time has come for proposals to ward any radical departure in the system of baseball government—the time of the winter baseball meetings. There seems to be among minor league baseball fans a still latent feeling against the parading of worn-out major league players on minor league teams. Any remedy for this lies in bringing it up at the minor and major league meetings. It is scarcely likely that the majors will propose any departure from the present system of control of ball players in the minors.

The National league has no important business to be considered. Like the American league it is awaiting the results of the National Association meeting of minor league in Chattanooga. If the minors should adopt something that would meet major league consideration attention will be given to it. First at the separate major league meetings and then at the joint session.

The major league control of ball players in the minors has been expanded to such an extent by the major organizations that the latter realize they are involved too deeply to lessen this control. The overhead that is being carried to maintain minor league schools for major players, who cannot be used during a certain season, is considerably tremendous, yet the majors have gone so far that they do not see how they can withdraw from present arrangements without a loss to themselves and their chances for putting championship teams before their public.

The present method by which some minor league clubs continue to call their teams with major players some of them of long service and some without service, is the drawback that seems to prevent any readjustment of present conditions.

"The minors take over old players at high salaries to manage their clubs and those managers take their old ball playing friends to help them out," said a prominent major league man. "The fans in the minor leagues resent the fact that they must pay to watch old ball players after their time of efficient service is over, believing, that they should be given new faces to look at and younger players to watch. It is my belief that any community, minor league or major league, becomes more attached to baseball as it serves a younger element obtaining skill on its ball park. Marlowson was a great pitcher. He became a New York idol because he started as a youth at the Polo Grounds here and became better and better as the years passed on."

"Dale Ruth was a ball player before he went from Boston to New York. In the last part of his splendid career was demonstrated before the fans of New York City and he became their leading idol as Marlowson was their pitching idol."

AL SINGER FACES PETE NEBO TONIGHT

Ghetto Youngster Called Best Lightweight Prospect in Ring Today

New York.—Al Singer faces tough opposition in the person of Pete Nebo Friday at Madison Square Garden here. Al has compiled a brilliant record in the forest of feather and junior lightweights.

The Singer-Nebo match has been hanging fire ever since Al flashed through with a knockout win over Alvin Roush. Nebo was after Roush and Singer beat him to it. Then Pete set sail after Bill Chocolate and made the jewel of the Ghetto set their first and pulled down a big sum for his engagement with the flashy Cuban.

It was a fortunate conclusion that the rivals would meet together and the genius of Madison Square Garden, matchmaker Tom McArdle, overruled the colorful matter.

While Singer is a steady contender to win over Nebo, the latter is not a steady contender.

benefit of Clontie Taft's coaching, and the polished defense and attack of the Italian has been good enough to place him well up in the forefront of feather and junior lightweights.

Estimate Over $100,000,000 Will Be Spent for Thanksgiving Dinners

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright 1929, by Cons. Press
New York.—Thanksgiving dinner, famed in story and tradition, cost the American people well over $100,000,000 this year. That is a conservative estimate of the cost of the amount of food offerings on the altar of gratitude for benefits received according to distribution and marketing authorities and government officials. That represents only a part, however, of the sum the public will spend in celebration of that day. Turkey, the mainstay and piece de resistance of the Thanksgiving meal since colonial days, will be in plentiful supply and at prices lower than is usual at this season of the year. This country, with which turkey, Indian maize, or corn, and tobacco were indigenous, no longer has a monopoly of production. The Argentine now exports to America 200,000 pounds of turkey a year. While some growers will suffer from the heavy supply, more will pay the penalty of producing low grade birds.

GRADING IS ADVISED
R. C. Potts, chief of the poultry and dairy division of the department of agriculture, said today that while the low prices obtaining this year would have a bad effect on the products of growers in all sections, the heaviest losers would be the low grade producers. The department is advocating the grading of turkeys and establishing schools to train men and women to make accurate determination between grades. The work of these schools has been received with enthusiasm, he added. In order to hold losses as low as possible, the department has been urging dealers to sell half a turkey. It has been found that the smaller families hesitate about buying a 10 to 12 pound bird when half the amount of meat purchased would suffice. The average consumption per person, Mr. Potts says, is six ounces.

The bureau of economics of the department of agriculture sponsors the statement that about 25 per cent of the families of America would eat turkey Thursday. In addition the remaining 75 per cent of the 47,500,000 families will have dinners in most cases which represent an additional expenditure above the usual Thursday meal of $2 each. The average Thanksgiving turkey dinner cost per family according to C. C. Wallfisch of the department of agriculture, will be between $6 and $7.

In addition, producers of beef, pork, duck, veal, lamb and poultry of various sorts will benefit.

The dinner bill would not be complete without heavy profits to ice cream and candy manufacturers, nut growers and distributors, truck and fruit gardeners and dealers of soft drinks, such as cider and grape-juice. The anti-prohibition forces estimate the consumption of illicit alcoholic drinks at well over $10,000,000.

Cranberries are in short supply and keen demand. Irish potatoes are in a similar statistical position, according to Wells A. Sherman, of the department of agriculture. This has caused the demand to swell potatoes because of the price differential. Celery and spinach are about normal as to supply and price and fall cabbage, lettuce and turnips will not be neglected.

Amusement promoters will benefit hugely. The movies, according to N. D. Golden chief of the motion picture division of the department of commerce, will have their best day in their history on Thursday.

"Whereas there is a slight falling off at the Yule season and during the Christmas holiday," he said, "the motion picture theaters are always crowded on Thanksgiving Day. Since many of the theaters are putting on midnight shows this year, business should show an increase over any previous Thanksgiving period."

Some 10,000,000 patrons are expected to attend the movies Thursday. The legitimate stage will show a similar benefit, according to theatrical producers. The ticket brokers anticipate a harvest.

Automobile traffic will show a marked increase if the weather is good, and even if it is not. The sale of gasoline and oil will show a decided improvement over the ordinary Saturday and Sunday period. It is probable, however, that reduced traffic will not show any appreciable increase over the holiday.

About 6,000,000 men and women are expected to go to and about $25,000,000 will be spent in viewing football games and other sporting events.

It is quite evident from the facts listed above that some lines of American business will have cause for the giving of thanks.

GRANGE HEAD SEES DANGER IF FARMER IGNORES COMMUNITY

Be Careful Not to Divide Against Seives, L. J. Taber Advises

BY FRANK I. WELLER
Washington.—(AP)—Agriculture faces the danger of farm communities being divided against themselves, L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, declared in a warning to the Seattle convention.

"The progress made in cooperative marketing, and the assistance of the government and other agencies in developing commodity organizations, threaten disaster to rural community life by dividing communities along commodity lines," he said.

"When community life and welfare are lost sight of and a neighborhood is thought of in terms of its various commodities, discord will develop and unified agriculture will become impossible."

While the Grange believes every farmer should support commodity cooperatives, Taber insisted that the welfare of agriculture depends upon maintaining general community organizations with their social, educational, fraternal and legislative features and "their background developing the best in morals, patriotism, and spiritual life in the open country."

"The farmer must perform for himself most of the tasks that affect his own welfare," he said. "He must meet organization with organization. He must meet centralized buying with the strong arm of collective bargaining."

"Great nationwide cooperatives are being organized and in the immediate future there is a possibility that the voice of agriculture will be made articulate in the markets of the world."

NOT A BIT OF LUCK

"You say you haven't anything to be thankful for? Why, look at your neighbor; he's just lost his mother-in-law by influenza."

"But that doesn't do me any good."

—Tid-Bits.

Soft, wavy hair!

The modern sculptured bobs do wonders to bring out your personality. But like other present-day fashions of changing the hair, they call attention to it. That's why it's so important nowadays to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant. This easiest and quickest way to give new lustre and color to hair, which has begun to look dull and lifeless, is with Danderine. And it makes the hair softer, easier to arrange; holds it in place.

Here's all you do. Each time you use your brush just put a little Danderine on it. It removes the oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; gives it more gloss than brilliancy. Waves "set" with it stay in longer.

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It stops falling hair. A small bottle is enough to show its merit. Start on it tonight. adv.

MR. W. L. GRATH

"For years I endured the miseries of indigestion and kidney trouble," said Mr. W. L. Grath, 103 Belmont street, Waterloo, Iowa. "After every meal, gas formed, pains and heart palpitation followed. I lost little nourishment from the food I ate and my general health was badly depleted. Double kidneys not only caused backaches and night urines, but filled my system with uric acid."

It was pointed out that the frequency of 6,600 to 23,600 kilocycles comprising the transatlantic band, should in principle be reserved for long distance communication, but that "during daylight at the transmitting station there means from about 2 hours after sunrise to about 2 hours before sunset" the frequencies between 6,600 and 23,600 kilocycles can be used for medium distance communication.

The commission shortly will consider the Universal applications. Since the conference at The Hague was merely recommendatory, there is no need for international agreement as to the allocation of these frequencies. It is expected that other communications companies will be authorized to use the frequencies between 6,600 and 23,600 kilocycles for medium distance communication.

FIFTY CENT CHECK BRINGS PARIS POLICE

Paris — (AP)—Paying with check is always difficult enough in France, but when one tries to settle a small matter that way the police are called.

An American, described by the police as a "A. S. R." because he was not arrested, tried to pay a 50 cent charge with a check and instead got a lesson in harder shop language at the station house.

The American explained his checks were good at home, but the police replied Paris wasn't his home and, as such, there was plenty of small change in circulation.

UNIVERSAL AFTER MORE FREQUENCIES FOR ITS NETWORK

Company Promises Lower Rates to Public If Granted Request

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1929, by Cons. Press
Washington—To round out its projected nationwide radio-telephone network, to be the first of its kind in the world, the Universal Wireless Communications Company Inc., has applied for a block of 25 additional frequencies heretofore reserved exclusively for international communications within the United States.

The first to request the use of these additional frequencies was the company, which promises lower rates to the public for the dispatching of messages by radio, if it gets them. The channels are located in the band from 6,600 to 23,600 kilocycles and, under international agreement have been reserved for transatlantic communication. But the International Radio Consultative Committee, which met at The Hague in September, is proposing that these frequencies be used for domestic communication.

Universal's 25 additional frequencies, in the band from 6,600 to 23,600 kilocycles, which is most likely to be used by radio, to compete with the existing wire line connections. It is expected that the use of these channels for point-to-point communication will be a great help to the company. It has been found that the continental frequencies allocated at The Hague during the summer of the day, and consequently are not well adapted for transatlantic communication.

OPERATION COSTS LOWER

These channels during night hours, when radio waves travel farther, are international in character, and for that reason they may not be used for continental communication when the sun is down as it is at night. Then Universal's plan is to use them only for long distance overland communication during daylight hours, and it was pointed out, for the longest of the transatlantic hauls, about 3,600 miles, only one relay would be required. On the lower frequencies, three and possibly four would be needed, according to engineers.

More dependable service for interstate communication and a reduction in radio air line economic rates will result from the use of these frequencies, according to the applications filed with the Federal Radio Commission.

"Inasmuch as frequencies between 3,600 and 6,600 kilocycles assigned to this company for continental use show an amount of fading during the noon hours," the applications state, "this request is based upon the report adopted by the radio conference held at The Hague, Sept. 18, 1928."

It was pointed out that the frequency of 6,600 to 23,600 kilocycles comprising the transatlantic band, should in principle be reserved for long distance communication, but that "during daylight at the transmitting station there means from about 2 hours after sunrise to about 2 hours before sunset" the frequencies between 6,600 and 23,600 kilocycles can be used for medium distance communication.

It is expected that other communications companies will be authorized to use the frequencies between 6,600 and 23,600 kilocycles for medium distance communication.

The American explained his checks were good at home, but the police replied Paris wasn't his home and, as such, there was plenty of small change in circulation.

CHAPTER 16 AN UNEXPECTED VISITOR

HERE, BARBARA, FOUND BARBARA AND HENDERSON SITTING IN THE back parlor of the Blue Bird Inn, to which the last clue had led them. Both had the appearance of being somewhat dejected as they sat in the stiff upright chairs of the stuffy parlor.

"Any of the others been here yet?" Henderson demanded of the fat, good natured proprietor. "No sir, none as yet, sir."

His placed two triple gins before them and at the same time, handed them the final clue. "What is it?" Barbara asked. Henderson was looking at it in amazement.

"A crossword puzzle—imagine having to work out a crossword puzzle at this hour of the morning!" He went on grumbling to himself as he bent over it and Barbara, too, tired to sit still, wandered around the little room, amazed at the collection of stuffed birds and boxes and shell gaskets that were carefully preserved behind glassed cases.

Presently he threw his pencil down with a satisfied sigh. "It's done—like to have a look at it?"

And he showed her the puzzle and the solution he had worked out. "You see, knowing the country around here, helped me a lot," he confessed. "Trow Abbey is a famous old ruin in these parts and I happen to know the tombstone of Thomas Davy. I take it that the reason he's hidden there... Now for our drinks—we've earned 'em!"

Barbara eyed him distrustfully. "What rot. A good stiff drink will do you good."

She shrugged and picked up the glass, studying it absent-mindedly. What did it matter anyhow? "It's done—like to have a look at it?"

WANT RAILROAD MERGER DECISION ANNOUNCED SOON

$1,000,000,000 of New Capital Being Held Up,
Experts Estimate

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
(Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press)
Wall Street, New York.—Financial Review and Outlook. The date fixed for the release of the interstate commerce commission's plan of railroad consolidation has been that of Jan.
1, but it was suggested today that as a means of strengthening confidence and permitting railroad executives to map out expansion programs it might be announced sooner. The estimate has been made that nearly $1,000,000,000 of new capital is being held up as a result of merger negotiations.

There are also intimations that certain stock market situations developing from the October and November break in prices may change the attitude of interests that have been advocating a fifth system in the east.

There are strong advocates within the commission both for a four-party plan and for one which would recognize the right of a fifth system to be formed in the trunk line territory.
Commissioner Lewis is strongly in favor of the five systems, with the Webb and Lehigh Valley forming the basis for a merger which would come into competition with the present four groups represented by the Pennsylvania, New York Central,
Baltimore & Ohio and Nickel Plate roads. The fifth system would supplement the existing Pennsylvania lines, for control of the Webbs and Lehigh Valley is held by the Pennsylvania company and there seems to be little doubt but that the Pittsburgh and West Virginia ownership has recently been transferred from the Teplins to the portfolio of the Pennroad company. There is still much difference of opinion among members of the interstate commerce commission whether they have any jurisdiction over stocks of competing railroads whose ownership is vested in holding companies.

The four-party plan came nearly to

Energizing Ultra-violet Rays

Ithaca, N. Y.—The possi-
